Stand May Influence Armistice

US Expresses Hope Britain's Switch Will Sway Enemy

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—United States officials expressed hope today that a demonstration of solidarity between this country and Britain on the Korean truce negotiations and conduct of the war might improve prospects for getting an armistice agreement with the Communists.

Britain's Defense Minister, Viscount Alexander, is due here tomorrow for conferences with Defense Secretary Lovett and other high officials following his recent visit to Korea. Enroute here he has spoken in high praise of the handling of the situation by the present command. His appearance here is expected to produce new evidence of Anglo-American unity on this point — contrary to the expectations two weeks ago.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Dean Acheson will leave on a European trip Sunday night. On the first stage of this he will receive a degree at Oxford University, and will also confer in London with British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

Their talk has no fixed schedule of subjects, authorities said, and is expected to cover the range of common interests of the Big Three Western Governments. These include Germany, relations with Russia, sore spots like Tunisia, Egypt and Iran, as well as Korea.

One Hurdle Remains

For several weeks American officials and representatives of other U. N. nations with forces in Korea have been seeking a way to get the truce negotiations over their last great hurdle—the prisoner of war issue. The United Nations side has asserted it will never compromise its stand against forcible repatriation of prisoners, and many thousands of Reds have said they would forcibly resist returning to North Korea or China.

One device which has been under discussion is to suggest to the Reds that even before an armistice is agreed upon they should see for themselves—by having observers with some neutral investigating committee—how many Red prisoners are willing to go home.

One objection to this is that while it would modify the previously declared U. N. position calling for a Communist check-up only after a truce, it would not seem to offer any real inducement to the Reds to accept the U. N. position on prisoners.

At the outset of Alexander's visit to Tokyo—which he apparently made because of popular criticism in England of United States management of the Korean situation — Alexander had intimated a desire for direct British representation on the U. N. truce team. U. S. diplomatic and military policymakers decided that they would urge Alexander not to press the matter in Washington. They felt that the addition of a Britisher to the truce negotiations now might be mistaken by the Red Chinese as preparation for a change in U. N. policy on prisoners.

Divergence Would Hurt

There was also some fear here that Alexander might come up with critical reactions which would show a divergence of view between the American and British governments that would adversely affect the negotiations. Instead, when he finished his first hand inquiry Alexander, took the view that criticism of the American handling of the situation was "absolutely unjustified."

What is expected to come out of the meeting here is some arrangement for closer British-American liaison at a high military level in Tokyo—headquarters of General Mark Clark's allied command.

UN Troops Set For Red Push On Two Hills

SEOUL, Sunday, June 22—(AP)—American and Filipino infantrymen braced early today for expected new Chinese Red assaults of "T-Bone" and "Pork Chop" hills of the Korean western front.

They inflicted an estimated 865 casualties in a furious six-hour battle Saturday. But late Saturday night the Reds renewed their intensive bombardment of the hills —west of Chorwon.

Associated Press correspondent Milo Farneti, with the U. S. 45th Division, reported the Chinese assaults turned into the biggest battle along the front since the U.S. 3rd Division drove the Reds off "Little Gibraltar" last November. Farneti added:

Reds Lose 3,000 Men

"Chinese casualties in the two weeks of fighting rose 'probably close to 3,000", a frontline American officer said. American troops called the two main hills 'T-Bone' and 'Pork Chop' because of their peculiar shapes. The hills are separated by a valley and a low ridge.

"The Chinese poured in about 7,500 rounds of artillery and mortar before and during their six-hour attack. The 179th Regiment and the Philippine 19th Battalion Combat Team fought off—sometimes with bayonets—four Chinese battalions between 10:25 p.m., Friday and 5:30 a.m. , Saturday. Red artillery hit 'T-Bone' with 500 rounds in 15 minutes during the early part of the battle."

Frontline officers estimated the Chinese attacking force at between 3,000 and 4,000 men.

Farneti reported that American troops on "Pork Chop" hill said a Chinese woman—apparently a nurse—charged up the hill with the attackers.

Sabres Down Six MIG's

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported in its weekly summary that Sabrejet pilots shot down six Communist fighters and damaged two. The Air Force said F-86s bagged three MIG-15s and three propeller-driven LA-9s. U. S. losses were listed as an F-84 Thunderjet, downed by ground fire, and a Marine Corsair, lost to unknown causes.

The Far East Air Forces reported three MIGs and two LA-9 planes destroyed during the week for a total of five, one less than the Fifth Air Force claimed.

FEAF said enemy losses to date for all types of planes were 1,220 including 360 MIGs destroyed, 84 more probably destroyed and 511 damaged for a total of 955 MIGs. The summary said 265 other Red planes were destroyed or damaged.

FEAF listed Allied Air losses at 707 from all causes. This did not include Navy air casualties.

The Sabres, flying top cover for Allied fighter-bombers, were credited with picking off another MIG Saturday near Pyongyang, the Korean Communist capital.

Grain Prices Sink On Chicago Market

CHICAGO June 21—(AP)—Grains sank on the Board of Trade Saturday. Corn lost the most ground while rye held up best, although losing early gains at the finish.

Mild hedging pressure depressed wheat. Large cash grain arrivals, coupled with a splendid crop outlook, sank corn. Oats were down with corn and the receipts of some more oats from Canada.

There was a little support in rye and soybeans because of the House action Friday in tentatively voting to remove controls over practically all commodities.

Wheat closed ¾ to 1⅛ cent lower, corn ¾ to 1¾ cents lower, oats ¼ to ⅞ cents lower, rye unchanged to ½ cent lower, and soybeans 1¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher.

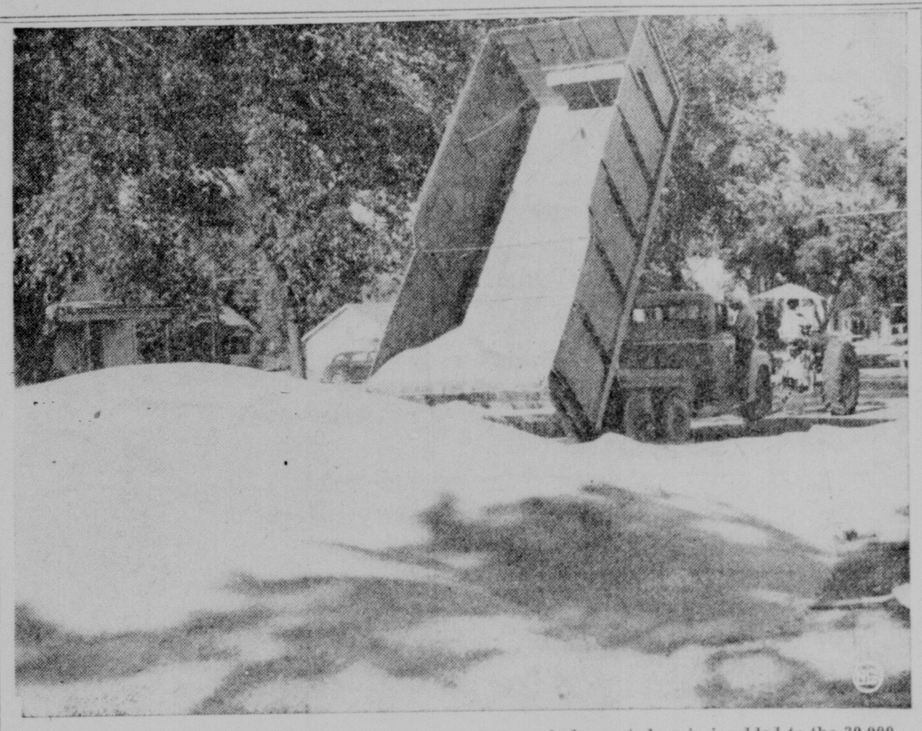
The action Saturday left wheat 1⅝ to 2¼ cent lower for the week. Corn was 3¼ to 6½ cent lower, oats 1¼ to 2⅞ cent lower, rye 1¾ to 4¾ cent higher and soybeans ¼ to 2 cents higher.

Corn was the weakest grain during the week. It had to weather a lot of bad news and didn't do it very successfully. The rear-by months were depressed by large receipts of cash grain.

Germans Can Still Smile

WOLFSHAGEN, Germany, June 21—(AP)—The Waldeckische, Landeszeitung carried this ad in its classified columns today:

Found: One set of false teeth with a lighted cigar still clenched in them.



STORE WHEAT IN STREETS—Another truckload of newly harvested grain is added to the 30,000-bushel pile of wheat dumped in a street near the business section of Columbus, Kan., after box cars and storage facilities ran out. It was expected that 20,000 additional bushels would be added to the mound before utilizing another city block set aside for temporary storage. This is the first time in history that the Cherokee County wheat crop has been large enough to warrant dumping in the streets. Some fields in the area are yielding 58 bushels to the acre.

Turkey Pays Family A 9-Year-Old Debt

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—Tommy the Turkey has repaid his debt for the reprieve he got at Thanksgiving time nine years ago.

Mrs. John Bryske of suburban LeMay said she heard the bird making loud, unusual noises last week.

She went into the yard and found flames shooting up from a rubbish pile.

Tommy's warning was in time to prevent the fire from spreading.

The Bryskes bought Tommy to fatten him for their 1943 Thanksgiving dinner, but when that day came he was "one of the family."

Berry Issues Plea For Aid On Defense

H. O. Berry, head of the Civil Defense Program in Sedalia, has issued an urgent plea for volunteers to carry on the qualifications of the program which has been set up by national headquarters.

Berry said that the program in Sedalia is at a complete standstill due to the lack of interest which the people in the surrounding community have shown.

"Elsewhere in the state in cities such as Kansas City, St. Louis and Hannibal the defense preparation program has become an institution of which the people are proud," Berry said, "but here is Sedalia there is a vital need for help and co-operation."

At the present time more than 2,000 volunteers are needed to fill positions such as block and ward captains. Until these positions are full there can be no opportunity for practice or detailed organization of the Civil Defense.

Many of the local business men and community leaders have promised help, Berry said, but none of them have carried their words out. It seems, he said, that the people have been lulled into a sense of false security because the war in Korea has come to a near halt.

With the reactivation of the Sedalia Air Force Base, Sedalia has become an important district in regard to the Civil Defense Program. In case of attack nearly all communications for the base could be stiffled by centering an attack on Sedalia and Warrensburg.

Berry said that Warrensburg had realized the seriousness of the situation and had taken precautionary steps. He urges that all those who feel that they should have a part in the protection of their city to get in contact with him.

Consumers To Save This Week On Three Appreciation Days

The town is in for another big week-end, this time it is Sedalia Appreciation Days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 26, 27 and 28, and there will be bargains galore in the local stores.

This sales promotion, which is a good one, was dreamed up by the Special Activities Committee of the Retail Merchants Division of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce; Maurice Hogan is chairman.

Hogan and his committee have done a lot of planning and, in addition to the bargains, they have a few special features to offer. They have secured free bus transportation downwtown between the hours of 9 and 12 all three mornings from Marvin Howard. This is for incoming bus traffic only, into the downtown section; the outgoing traffic will pay the regular fare.

Then the committee contacted Mayor Herb Studer, who in turn talked to members of the City Council, with the result that parking those three days will be free in the downtown meter zone.

Another feature for Sedalia Appreciation Days will be free swimming for any person 16-years-old or under, either at Liberty Park or Hubbard Park. Tickets will be given with any puchase by stores participating in Appeciation Day and may be used Thusday, Friday or Saturday.

Last minute Christmas shopping won't have a thing on the July Appreciation Days. There should be mobs of people downtown after real buys offered by the stores, and it will be fun seeing friends you haven't seen for weeks, months, maybe years, or even meeting your next door neighbor you see every day.

Train Injures A Section Man At Clifton City

Charles E. Levi, 48, of Childress, Tex., was injured critically about 3 p.m. Saturday when the section car which he was riding near Clifton City was struck by a southbound "Katy" freight train.

It was reported that Levi was working with a section gang on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad out of Clifton City, when the accident occurred. Witnesses of the accident said that the freight had failed to climb a hill near Clifton City and was backing down the hill to make another attempt when it struck the section car on which Levi was riding. Levi reportedly had waited for the train to pass and had then placed the car back on the tracks and was heading in the same direction of the train, which was said to have been traveling about 50 miles per hour.

The engineer of the train, E. J. Broomer of Boonville, and the conductor, F. L. Miller, 1436 South Carr, Sedalia both were unable to be contacted for a statement, as they were on a run to Parsons, Kan.

The section car on which Levi, who works as a welder, was riding was not seriously damaged and did not leave the tracks after the accident.

Dr. Pete Siegel of Smithton was summoned to the scene of the accident where he gave emergncy treatment. Levi was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Neumeyer ambulance, where Dr. Siegel reported he was suffering from a fractured cervicle vertebrae, which had caused paralysis from the neck down, an extensive laceration on his scalp and numerous bruises.

Levi's daughter, Mrs. W. B. Henning of Ft. Worth, Tex., was notified of her father's accident and arrived in Sedalia late Saturday night.

At 1 a.m. today Levi was reported to be resting well.

Forage Crops Suffer In Recent Heat Wave; Damage In Millions

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—The June heat wave, which sent the thermometer over 90 for the 17th straight day, has caused several million dollars of damage, it was estimated today.

Lowell O. Burns, director of the Agricultural Bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, said much of the damage is being suffered in forage crops, with lespedeza, and annual legume important in Missouri and southern Illinois, severely injured in the seedling stage.

Burns blamed lack of rain for the damage.

The temperature reached 96 today and the weather bureau saw no immediate relief.

A drenching 1.47 inches of water fell in St. Louis yesterday—the first substantial rain here this month.

Weatherman Harry Wahlgren said the rain was local and did not ease drouth conditions in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri.

"Hay and pasture crops are in short supply locally," Burns said, "and distressed cattle are starting to come to market.

"Drouth damage to crops will reduce local farm income from crops and livestock by millions of dollars."

Confident Taft Tries To Patch Party Rift

Ike Blasts Taft Forces For 'Betrayal'

DALLAS, Tex., June 21—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower bitterly accused the Taft forces in Texas tonight of a ruthless steal of Republican National Convention delegates which he called a "great betrayal" of the GOP Party and its principles.

"In this case," he said, "the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

Then the general in the first real fighting speech of his young campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination:

1. Invited Democrats and independent voters to join with the Republicans in ousting an administration which he said is "ingrown, inbred and incapable."

2. Called for an "open door policy" with a nationwide political revival "that will result in a lot of Democratic conversions."

3. Charged a "small clique" of unworthy Republicans in Texas and Louisiana look on the party as "their fenced-in, personal preserve."

He Urges Honesty

4. Urged honest and fair play in the Chicago convention next month because "no political party can tolerate a rigged convention and win."

With this speech prepared for delivery before a Texas audience the general—for the first time in public—flayed the political tactics used by the supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, his chief opponent for the GOP Presidential nomination.

Eisenhower did not call Taft or the Taft forces by name, but there was not the slightest doubt at whom he was shooting in this speech which had been billed as a "rip snorter." He came here from his Denver, Colo., headquarters to deliver this major campaign address.

Eisenhower and Taft forces named rival Texas delegate slates to the national convention in a bitter battle that has split open the state's GOP Party. Taft forces claim the Eisenhower delegates actually were named by Democrats voting under the cloak of Republicans.

Reviewing this situation, Eisenhower said:

"A good many weeks ago I heard how your young people here in Texas were moving into the Republican Party according to the rules laid down by ourselves. They went to work for the party at the precinct level. They rang doorbells. They addressed envelopes. They did the down-to-earth drudgery that is an essential part of the business of self government. That was good news to me.

Whole Party Affected

"Then later I heard of the Great Betrayal of these young people. Let me tell you, that was a betrayal of the whole Republican Party and its principles. A party can not have room for victory that does not make room for youth.

"Instead of the great upsurge of moral and spiritual strength we need, how sadly must we look on what has happened here.

"Thousands upon thousands of Republican voters—an overwhelming majority of them—were deliberately and ruthlessly disfranchised. Majority rule, the very basis of our free government—was here flouted and overridden. As one of our own Texas newspapers said: 'If a businessman used the same tactics he would be indicted and sent to prison by any American jury'. And in this case the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

House Members Lose Impeachment Spirit

WASHINGTON, June 21 —(AP)—House members apparently have lost much of the enthusiasm some of them avowed to impeach President Truman.

Only 20 have signed a petition which, if signed by 218, would force a House vote on an impeachment resolution.

The petition has been on file with the House clerk for four days. It was presented last Tuesday by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich).

Shafer filed it because the House Judiciary Committee, to which his impeachment resolution has been referred, decided to shelve it.

The resolution was introduced shortly after President Truman's April 8 seizure of the steel mills set off a storm of criticism accompanied by demands from a number of House members for his impeachment.

Kefauver Aide Accuses Foes Of Conspiracy

CHICAGO, June 21—(AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver's campaign manager declared today that Kefauver's opponents have conspired to deadlock the Democratic National Convention and give Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois the Presidential nomination.

Gael Sullivan, in a radio-television (CBS) address, said Democratic party political bosses are "conniving" in the deal which also would name Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia the vice-presidential nominee.

Sullivan said this was all part of a stop-Kefauver drive negotiated in a "smoke-filled room."

The Tennessee Senator also spoke over the same network later, expressing confidence that his state-by-state campaign has given him enough support from the American people to win the nomination.

Bosses Oppose Senator

Sullivan's blistering speech, however, said the political bosses "are out to stop the nomination of Estes Kefauver" and that agreements already have been reached on methods.

"This is the way they hope to do it," Sullivan said:

"The backers of Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia have been in conference on this deal and have entered into a conspiracy calculated to deadlock the convention.

"These political bosses have concocted the following plan: they will have Gov. Stevenson throw his support to W. Averell Harriman at the outset. They will have Sen. Russell stay in the race with his delegates. The bosses expect that this will result in a stand-off for the three candidates each with a block of delegates—Sen. Kefauver, Mr. Harriman, and Sen. Russell.

"While Sen. Kefauver will have more delegates than anyone else, no one of the three will have the majority necessary for the nomination. By this maneuver, they hope to stop Estes Kefauver.

He'll Bow To Demand

"Then Gov. Stevenson will magnanimously allow himself to be drafted. Out of gratitude for Stevenson's previous support these bosses forsee that Mr. Harriman will throw what little support he has to the governor.

"Senator Russell will then swing his support to Gov. Stevenson. In this way, the bosses, in a smoke-filled room, before the convention even starts, have planned how to rob the people of the choice they have expressed in primaries all over the nation.

"The next step in this plan is this: the backers of Gov. Stevenson will then throw his support to the backers of Sen. Russell for the vice-presidency."

Sullivan said that the "political bosses" even have an alternative plan worked out for possible use. The difference, he said, was "simply a matter of timing."

Rabies Proves Fatal To East St. Louis Man

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—Mae Pie, 57, East St. Louis Negro, died June 4 from rabies, Harry J. Mohler, superintendent of Missouri Pacific Hospital, reported today.

Pie's death was the second in 10 years in the St. Louis area attributed to rabies.

Eight-year-old John Schroeder of suburban Jennings died of the disease four months ago.

Physicians said they had been unable to learn how Pie contracted the disease. They said the cause of death was confirmed by an autopsy.

The Weather

Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday with scattered showers and thunderstorms north Sunday and north and west central Monday; a little warmer northwest Sunday, otherwise little change in temperature; highs Sunday 85-90 north, 95-100 extreme south.

Senator Says He, Ike Agree In Most Cases

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio held out the olive branch tonight to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on foreign policy and in th dispute over Texas Presidential nominating delegates.

In a news conference in which he exuded confidence that he will win the Republican nomination in Chicago next month, Taft assumed something of the role of a peacemaker in party affairs.

He departed from this role long enough to criticize what he called "pressure tactics" against delegates he claims in New Jersey and New York.

He jabbed lightly at what he said was Eisenhower's "unwillingness" to criticize President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson on foreign policy.

But on the whole he talked like a man who thinks he has the nomination battle won and is looking toward the patching of party wounds in preparation for the November warfare with the Democrats.

Taft told reporters he thinks John Foster Dulles, named as a special adviser to the GOP platform committee, can draft a foreign policy plank acceptable alike to him and to Eisenhower, his chief rival for the nomination.

Last Split Will Vanish

He said this would remove "the only dangerous element of a split in the party."

Although the five-star general has been quoted as calling Taft an "isolationist," the Ohio Senator said blandly he doesn't believe there is any real differences between them on foreign or important domestic policies.

"I don't see any tremendous differences on principle," he said. "Eisenhower possibly puts more emphasis on Europe than I do but it is a difference in methods, not principle."

He said he regards Eisenhower as "unwilling to criticize — not willing even to name—Truman and Acheson" and as "unwilling to go after the administration on its lack of judgment and its mistakes."

But he indicated that this again, is only a difference of methods, not principle.

In the face of charges that his supporters have planned "steamroller" tactics at the Chicago convention, Taft said Eisenhower backers are exerting steamroller pressure through the use of state patronage in New Jersey and New York.

Minority Faces Pressure

Noting that Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has called a meeting of the 38-vote New Jersey group for Friday night, Taft said "the whole purpose of the conference will be to try to pressure the minority into voting with the majority." He claims from nine to 12 of the state's delegates.

"There always has been a completely ruthless use of state patronage in New Jersey against me," Taft declared.

Driscoll, reached at Wildwood, N. J., where he was addressing a convention, replied, "apparently the campaign and the lust for office have warped Mr. Taft's judgment, or perhaps he has a guilty conscience because of the pressure and the tactics applied by his representatives throughout the country.

"When his crowd holds secret meetings to apply pressure it is okay. When his crowd steal delegates it is just part of the political game.

"When New Jersey follows its tradition of open meeting for its delegates it becomes something for Taft to protest and condemn. How silly can he get?"

Taft said that "steady pressure —including state patronage" had been used in New York against his delegates. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey claims all but one of the 96 for Eisenhower, but Taft has contended he will get a minimum of 17 votes there.

Texas Battle Can Calm

Taft said that if the Republican National Committee looks into the dispute over Texas' 38 delegates—where Eisenhower forces have cried "steal"—it might find "the basis for concessions" in that state's contest.

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS TALK IT OVER—Bob Robinson, left, and two members of Billy May's Band, with two other members of the band, Karl DeKarske and Cy Zetner, who seemed to be having a little discussion maybe over what they are going to play next.

Has Been With Most Big Name Bands—

Bob Robinson Now Playing With Billy May's Orchestra

Music started early with Bob Robinson, twin brother of Dr. D. H. Robinson, optician at the O. K. Optical Company. Way back in grade school in Moberly he started playing a saxaphone

The Robinson twins were born in Sedalia and when they were three-years-old the family moved to Moberly where they lived until 1937. The boys wee just entering the eighth grade when they came back and Bob took up trombone playing. He played that year in the Smith-Cotton High School orchestra throughout his high school years under J. T. Alexander. But he went a little more than that, he spent his summers, starting with his freshman year in high school, playing with college orchestras. He played all the time in an orchestra in Warernsburg and then came the call to service.

Both Bob and his brother Dave were in Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg at the time they enlisted in service. Dave went as an Air Force cadet, but Bob's eyesight kept him out of the Air Force so he went in the Army. He was sent to Jefferson Barracks where he was put in the Jefferson Barracks marching band. He also played with a dance orchestra at Jefferson Barracks called the Jive Bombers. Bob left Jefferson Barracks and was sent to Alaska where he formed his own dance orchestra and after he was discharged from the Army, he stayed in California and went with Jan Savitt's orchestra, playing with that group until Savitt died in 1947.

Bob was in service three years, as was his brother Dave, but Dave finished his education and came back to Sedalia in November 1948.

Bob stayed on in California and played about a year with the Spike Jones orchestra, in which he was the only trombonist.

He has studied as he played and received his master's degree in music. He married a Missouri girl, whom he met in California. She was Dorothea Smith, daughter of Mr and Mrs. C. H. Smith of Warrensburg, who was in California as an airline hostess. They have two children, Mary Margaret, two years old, and Vivian Lane, seven months.

Bob went on with orchestras. He was with Freddy Slack's orchestra, making a short movie which was shown in Sedalia about two years ago, then he went with Matty Malneck's orchestra and has set in weekly jobs with all of the named bands on the West Coast.

The first of the year he started with Billy May and has helped make every recording May has made since he started his orchestra. There never was a better man to work for than Billy May, thinks Bob, and he never fails to say so in his frequent letters to his twin brother here, nor never a more congenial bunch to work with than the fellows in Billy May's band.

Billy May has made all the arrangements for the children's records which have become so popular. Before he started his own orchestra he made arrangements for Glenn Miller, who was killed during the war. Bob is, also, in the movie short made of Billy May's Band which will be shown in Sedalia sometime this year.

Bob and Dave's father died a number of years ago, but their mother and sister, Jean, who is now Mrs. M. J. Stark, are both out in California. Their grandmother, Mrs. George F. Conser, lives at 1516 South Ohio. Their Grandfather Conser used to have a repair shop on Fifth and Ohio.

While growing up, the Robinson twins lived with their grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Robinson, and Grandfather Robinson, superintendent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad in Sedalia, was mighty proud of his twin grandsons.

Pat (Morin) and Ike (GOP Aspirant)—They Look Alike

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—You've heard all the stories about Pat and Mike.

Well, this one's about Pat and Ike. They look alike.

His strong facial resemblance to Gen. Ike Eisenhower has been one long comedy of errors to Relman (Pat) Morin, Pulitzer prize winning reporter for the Associated Press.

It began nine years ago when Pat was first mistaken for Ike. And it has gone on intermittently ever since, as Pat has spent a good part of those years reporting the varied activities of Ike in war and peace.

"I don't see the resemblance myself," said Pat, "but other people do."

The other people include Pat's wife.

If they are not mistaking Pat for Ike when they are apart, they mistake Pat for Ike's younger brother when the two are at the same event. Pat is tall, balding and 44. Ike is tall, balding and 62.

The first instance of this "look-alike" trouble cost Pat the annoyance of a king.

"It happened in a French village outside Bizerte during the tour of the North African battlefront made by the late King George VI in 1943," Pat recalled.

"I was among a group of eight or 10 reporters assigned to travel in his motorcade. Several of us were in the motor car immediately behind the king's.

"While King George was being greeted by the village officials, a Frenchman in the crowd looked in our car, spotted me, and cried: 'Look, there's General Eisenhower, too!'

"Part of the crowd began surging excitedly around us. All I could do was scrunch down in the car, trying to look as small as possible. I kept saying in French: 'No, no, you are mistaken.'

"The king, who was a grand guy, naturally was annoyed at the disturbance. He thought some of us were clowning around during the welcoming ceremony. He spun around and we got the full blast of a royal frown.

"Later his aides put him straight."

But minor versions of the same thing have been going on ever since.

"What gets me is that people who mistake me for Ike get mad at me when they discover I am not their hero," Pat said.

A recent survey has found a hole in the Pacific Ocean near Guam that is 35,000 feet deep, says the National Geographic Society.

Mrs. Kueck's Grandmother Grew Flax, Spun Thread, Wove Linen for Tablecloth

There is quite a story concerning the tablecloth on the table behind which Mrs. Fred A. Kueck, 1406 West Fourth, is seated in the above picture.

Many, many years ago in Amt-Bremmer Fraude, Germany, just a days ride from the largest German port, lived a beautiful young girl. There was a song in her heart for she was in love with a boy by the name of Meyer and as all young girls of that day, she could not go downtown and buy the lovely things for her hope chest as the girls of today do, and there were no bridal showers given by her friends.

But this girl had a hope chest. Of course, she might not have called it a hope chest, but nevertheless that was what it was, and for it she made beautiful linens. It took a great deal of work to make the linens because first she must grow the flax herself. Then she spun it into linen thread and wove it into material—fine linen—for the many lovely things she would make for her home.

Then came her wedding day and, then in time a baby, a little girl whom she named Rebecca. But the story did not end like stories should; she did not live to bring its happy ending. When Rebecca was two years old her mother took a severe cold which developed into tuberculosis and she died.

So Rebecca's father took her to his mother and her Grandmother Meyer reared her. When Rebecca was six years old she and her father and grandmother came to American by sailboat. Then from the east coast they came by steamboat to Missouri and with them they brought what was left of the material made by Rebecca's mother.

They settled in Cole Camp and when Rebecca was 17 she came to Sedalia where she has since made her home. When she was 24 she was married to a man by the name of Bush and among her children was Zelma, who is Mrs. Fred Kueck.

And so, through the years, Rebecca kept the cherished material that her mother had made and then she give it to Zelma, who made it into the exquisite cloth on her table. The cloth was only about 24 inches wide and so it had to be cut into four pieces and rounded, then crocheted together, and around the edge. Then Mrs. Kueck embroidered sprays of flowers in the corner.

Mrs. Kueck also made a beautiful bedspread of the linen. She had it stamped and then embroidered.

Rebecca Meyer Bush is now 89 and she is at present way out in the state of California visiting another daughter. Still in perfect health, she has never had a doctor in her life, even for the birth of her children. She wears out her children and even her grandchildren—they have a hard time keeping up with her.

At the mention of the name Rebecca a pretty brown-eyed little girl looked up from her color book. "My name is Rebecca," she said, "Rebecca Ringen."

"Yes," said her Grandmother Kueck, "Mother said she is the only grandchild named for her."

"They call me Becky," said the great-granddaughter of Rebecca Bush.

Mrs. Kueck has a great many antiques and some of them are displayed on the table. And they came from many places: China, Japan, Italy, Portugal, Germany and Mexico.

In the center of the table is the big sliver tureen 100 years old which is an heirloom in her family, the collor and cuff set that were on her mother's wedding dress, cloth on the underneath side, printed paper on the top and trimmed gold fringe. She still has the pins used to pin the collar—pins of many colored sets in silver mountings.

Among other things Mrs. Kueck has a china figurine of a child and a china swan that came from the first World's Fair held in St. Louis.

But Mrs. Kueck not only loves antinques, she loves anything pretty and her backyard is a mass of flowers with a big lily bed at the side of the house and in the back a walk that forms a square. In the center of the square are flowers of all kinds, annuals, biennials and perennials and on the other side of the walk all the way around, flowers in bloom, flowers that will bloom and flowers that have bloomed. And that isn't all, she goes to little Becky's house every year and makes a great big flower bed for Becky, and Becky's mother and daddy.

Red Cross Notes—

Bert Hathaway In Demand Now As Speaker for the Red Cross

Last Tuesday night, Bert Hathaway was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Saline County Chapter, American Red Cross, at Marshall. Mr. Hathaway is in constant demand as a guest speaker and is accepting similar invitations all over the state.

A letter of thanks and approbation has been received in the local Red Cross office from the Regional Blood Center in St. Louis in regard to the assistance given by the chapter's volunteers to the mobile blood unit operating at the state prison at Jefferson City. The fiscal year for the blood program has ended, and no more trips will be made at the present, or until requested by area office.

The next visit of the mobile blood unit will be made Aug. 27 and 28, the set up at this time being at the Smith-Cotton High School cafeteria. Anyone may call 618 and register now.

According to Henry Sutton, chairman of the Red Cross water safety program, an unusually large number of children have enrolled for swimming classes at the Liberty Park and Hubbard pools. Kenneth Cordry and Ralph Lee are this season's instructors and, under such capable leadership, a successful summer is virtually assured. During the calendar year 1951 a record number of 813,467 water safety certificates for courses in swimming and life saving were issued by the Red Cross.

Carry Out Glasses, Return With Pistols

CHICAGO (AP)—Four customers walked out of Lou Weiler's saloon today carrying their beer glasses with them.

"Come back here," yelled Bartender Roy Lindholm.

The quartet re-entered, each with a glass in one hand and a pistol in the other. They took $250 from the till. But they did return the glasses.

Poodle Style Dominates All American Fashions for Fall

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — The poodle, current darling of international fashion, has been clipped, curled, combed and teamed with sleek, smooth companions for next fall's all-american styles.

Textured fabrics are the big news of New York's fall fashion openings, which go into high gear next week when buyers and fashion editors from all over the United States and abroad converge on the big town's teeming garment district.

The silhouette is only slightly changed from last season, with slim skirts predominant for daytime wear, full skirts for cocktail and evening dresses, the hemline at mid-calf, shoulders smooth and unpadded, waistlines accentuated but not uncomfortably squeezed.

The whole feeling of the new fashions is one of smooth, rounded lines, lush fabrics and distinction in details. There will be few exaggerated monstroisitics for cartoonists to jibe in next fall's feminine fashions. Most styles are wearable, understated, designed to fit the usual outlines of the female figure and endowed with a quality of quiet elegance by expert tailoring and the handsomest lineup of fabrics in many moons.

Favorite colors for winter will be combinations of black and brown, with other colors in deep, muted tones, subdued by weaving black undertones into colored fabrics.

The textured and napped poodle and zybeline fabrics are top of the heap for suits and coats, often shown in combination with smooth worsteds or flannels dyed to match exactly.

The new poodle fabrics have deep curled surfaces, but are feather-light in the hand. Fabrics which look rich and heavy, with deep naps, turn out to be sheer as veiling on close inspection. This makes it possible for designers to use the deep-napped fabrics in new, suave suits and dresses which cling and drape as smoothly as silk, yet give the effect of weight and bulk.

Probably the top fashion for fall is the costume suit consisting of poodle-cloth jacket, either boxy or fitted, and sheath dress of butter-smooth flannel in precisely matching color, always deep and muted.

Designers show real winter suits this year, using brushed-surface and textured woolens which look warm and luxurious, but are always light in weight.

Skirts on these tailored outfits are almost always pencil slim in effect, but have adroit devices to provide fullness for walking in the form of low-placed pleats, usually at the back.

There are no square lines in fall fashions. Suit jackets are subtly rounded as to shoulders, bust and hipline, with even the bottom of the jackets dipping in a rounded line in back instead of being cut straight across. 8

Women will need a slim midriff, a high, rounded bustline and curving hipline to do right by the new styles, which definitely accentuate the feminine.

In evening styles the most popular length is ten inches from the floor, or just above the ankle, though there are some formal ballgowns which sweep the floor, and many youthful cocktail-through-dinner gowns which are street length, with draped and revealing bodices often covered up by a jacket or bolero to be removed after dark.

40 Tons of Poison Stop Cricket Horde

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Black acres of dead crickets lay rotting in the desert sun today and weary residents of the little mining community of Austin appeared to have won their battle against the ravenous horde.

The crickets advancing on a 25-mile front were stopped by 40 tons of poisoned barley spread in their path only a quarter-mile from the town's water reservoir.

Had the insects contaminated the reservoir, the 325 residents would have been forced to flee.

Austin is about 150 miles east of Reno.

Oil Hunted In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss federal government has warned cantonal authorities that they must grant no oil concessions to foreign companies which would prejudice Switzerland's national independence or neutrality.

Foreign oil companies have been authorized by various cantonal governments to prospect for oil deposits in the shale strata along the southern rim of the Jura Mountains.

Gov. Stevenson Denies Romances

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson denied last night that he is romantically inclined towards Miss Dorothy Fosdick, daughter of Harry Emerson Fosdick.

The report appeared in Drew Pearson's syndicated newspaper column.

"Newspapers have married me to three ladies in the last few months," Stevenson said in a statement. "I guess they think the plural of spouse is spice and now Mr. Pearson has added still another.

"It is all very flattering to me—if not to the ladies. I apologize to them for any embarrassment the writers may have caused them."

He did not identify the other ladies.

Miss Fosdick, an employe in the State Department in Washington, is the daughter of the Baptist minister and nationally known religious author.

The governor, 52, and father of three sons, is divorced.

Man Can Join Up With Choice Branch Until Gets Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're about to be drafted, you can join the service of your choice—provided you do it before your induction notice arrives.

That's been the case for several months, but yesterday the Defense Department made it an official, permanent policy.

For the past year, the services have been suspending — from month to month—an inter-service agreement which prohibited mend from volunteering for service after they had their pre-induction physical tests.

The Army is now the only service depending on the draft for men. The Air Force and Navy have kept at strength through volunteers. The Marine Corps brought in draftees for a few months during a build-up to its present strength of 200,000 but has now resumed its traditional practice of accepting only volunteers.

Beauties from 30 Countries Compete for 'Miss Universe'

LONG BEACH, CALIF., — (AP) — In a diverting display of United Nations charms, the most beautiful girls of 30 countries compete next week for the title of Miss Universe.

The top beauties of Asia, Africa, Australia, Europe, North and South America will make Long Beach the week-long center of free world pulchritude.

While the title, Miss Universe, technically leaves the door open to last-minute entries from Venus or Mars, or any lovely who can sneak out from behind the Iron Curtain, the winner will e chosen next Saturday from the following contestants:

Alaska, Shirley Burnett of Fairbanks; Australia, Leah McCartney, Victoria; Belgium, Marianne Mullender (also known as Myrian Lynn), Eynatten; Canada, Ruth Carrier, Toronto; Chile, Esther Saavedra, Santiago; Cubs, Gladys Lopez, Havana; Denmark, Hanne Sorensen, Copenhagen; Finland, Armi Kuusela, Helsinki; France, Claude (CQ) Godard, Bordeaux; Great Britain, Aileen Chase, Southwich, Sussex.

Greece, Daisy Mavraki, Crete; Germany, Renate Hoy, Munich; Hawaii, Elsa Kananionapua Edsman, Honolulu; Hong Kong, China, Judy Dann; India, Indrani Rahman, Calcutta; Israel, Ora Vered, Tel Aviv; Italy, Giovanna Mazzotti, Milan; Japan, Himeko Kojima, Asaka; Mexico, Olga Llorenz Perez Castillo, Mexico City; Norway, Eva Roine, Mysen; Panama, Elzevir Gisela Malek, Aquadulce; Peru, Ada Bueno, lima; Philippines, Teresita Sanchez, Manila; Puerto Rico, Marilia Levy, Hato Rey.

South Africa, Catherine Edwina Higgins, Johannesburg; Sweden, Anne Marie Tistler, Stockholm; Turkey, Gelengul Tayfuroglu, Istanbul; Uruguay, Gladys rubio, Montevideo; Venezuela, Sofia Silva Inserri, Ciudad Bolivar; and Miss United States—to be selected Friday night from finalists from 48 states.

The foreign hopefuls, vying for Hollywood fame, were selected after intensive contests in their own countries. In most of these, the sponsors had to assure doubting mamas and papas that the affair was quite proper.

In India, for example, posters advertising the contest contained this line: "No girl will be asked to do anything unbecoming of an Indian Lady."

Miss India, incidentally, is the only Mrs. among the visitors. Moreover, she has a 5-year-old daughter. Her first name, Indrani, means "Queen of Heaven."

She even has agreed to put on a bathing suit for the first time—in a manner befitting an Indian Lady, of course.

The judging of this interesting clash of occidental and oriental charm will be based on merits shown in bathing suit, native costume and evening gown, all on Saturday night. Each showing will count a third in the judging.

"Everything will be dignified," says Producer Oscar Meinhardt. "Dignity is the most essential thing in this pageant."

To get the proper air of dignity, the four co - sponsors — Catalina Swim Suits, Pan - American World Airways, Universal - International Studios, and the City of Long Beach — have invested nearly a million dollars.

The winner will be awarded a seven — year movie contract with Universal International; the three runners-up will get lesser pacts at the same studio.

The exotic package come in sizes varying from Miss Puerto Rico, five feet, 9¾ inches and 148 pounds, to Miss Panama, 5 feet and 105 pounds. Miss Puerto Rico, a bachelor of science in biology, has 38-28-39 measurements (bust - waist - hips). Miss Italy comes in with a minute - glass figure of 32-19-32.

The girls had to be 18 years old to qualify, and eight of them are just that. Miss Belgium, 25, is the oldest.

Contestants, exclusive of the U. S. Representative, average 20 years, 5 feet, 5 inches, 121 pounds, with vital measurements of 34¾, 24 and 35 inches. Meinhardt, former Miss America Pageant Producer at Atlantic City, N. J., says this is just about the composite ideal.

There are 19 brunettes, eight blondes and two red or auburn haired girls — Miss Venezuela and Miss France. Half of the blondes are from the Scandinavias and Germany — with Munich's Miss Hay well regarded by amatuer connoisseurs. Italy's doll-like Miss Mazzotti also has many admirers.

Contestants will arrive tomorrow prior to the Friday and Saturday night contests.

There will be no talent contests of any sort. Meinhardt, who broke with the Miss America show because "it got to be like amateur night," says: "This is strictly for beauty's sake."

The dizzy week will wind up with a grand coronation ball on Sunday when the queen gets her contract, a $3,000 car and miscellaneous gifts befitting the prettiest girl on this and presumably any other planet.

Hylick Resigns As Hubbard Park Recreation Head

The park and recreation committee of the Negro Community Council met this week at the Hubbard High School for the purpose of re-organizing.

Prof. J. B. Hylick, chairman for the past four years, tendered his resignation to the president of the Council, Carl Abbott, to become effective immediately.

Prof. Hylick stated that his reason for resigning was the increasing responsibility as the result of rapid expansion at Hubbard School. The council gave Prof. Hylick a standing vote of thanks for the fine work accomplished in the line of recreation in the Hubbard Park during his four years in office.

Prof. Hylick thanked each member of the committee and the Council for the fine cooperation given him during his four years as chairman of the park and recreation committee. He stated that it would have been impossible to accomplish anything worth while without this type of relationship. He discussed the importance of good leadership in any organization and stated that he thought the organization should continue to move forward. He wanted each member of the Negro Community Council to feel that no man should be so indispensable that the organization would fail to function without him.

Members of the park and recreation committee present were Rev. A. M. Todd, Marvin Jefferson, and Rev. J. Y. Jackson. Rev. J. B. Smith, pastor of Taylor Chapel Methodist Church, was the only member absent.

Boys, Firecrackers, Empty Gasoline Tank ---It Booms and Burns

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (AP) — Two small boys...a couple of midget firecrackers...an empty gasoline tank...and boom!

The whole Valley Stream area felt a jar yesterday. The one-ton, 2,000-gallon tank was lifted into the girders of the trestle under which it was stored and twisted around a steel beam. The two boys were burned.

The boys — Carl Heuther, 11, and Robert Muhr, 11 — wanted to see how much noise a firecracker would make when exploded in the tank.

Stassen Finds General Ike Disappoints

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, who still hopes to be the Republican presidential nominee, says he is "disappointed" in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's "conservative views" and believes sen. Robert A. Taft's only chance is to win nomination on the first ballot.

This doesn't mean that Stassen predicts victory for Taft in the Republican presidential contest at the Chicago convention. Far from it. He says he's certain that no candidate will win on the first ballot, though supporters of Taft and Eisenhower have claimed their man will do it.

In an interview with The Associated Press yesterday, the 45-year-old former Minnesota governor said Taft and Eisenhower "both are overclaiming their delegate strength." He added:

"Don't count me out. I have a better chance today than I did in 1948."

Does that mean that Stassen feels he could be the compromise choice?

"Yes and no," he replied. "But Gov. (Earl) Warren of California and Gen. (Douglas) MacArthur cannot be overlooked.

"MacArthur, particularly, is a very potent figure, and he must be considered. However, I can't express my sentiments about him stands domestically. We'll find that out in his keynote address (to the Republican convention)."

Stassen said he deliberately halted his political activity the past month so that all attention might be focused on Eisenhower on his return from Europe. He added that "lack of funds also forced me to curtail many activities." Only one Stassen headquarters, in Philadelphia, remains open.

Before Eisenhower left Europe Stassen said that although he was staying in the presidential race until the end, he favored Eisenhower over Taft. He even suggested publicly to Taft that the two of them get together and support "Ike" for the GOP nomination. Taft rejected the idea.

"I doubt if I would have ever made the offer," Stassen said, "if I had known that Eisenhower would speak out so conservatively on so many vital domestic issues.

"I wish very much that both Eisenhower and Taft were a bit more liberal in their viewpoints.

"My effort will be to unite the party on a more liberal program and to lead it to its first victory in 20 years next November."

Neither Parent Of Unborn Child Wants the Baby

CHICAGO (AP)—An unborn child, expected next week, is not wanted by either parent, Superior Judge George M. Fisher was told yesterday.

The expectant mother, Mrs. Marjorie Stegert, 25, who has a separate maintenance suit pending against Frank Stegert, 25, asked that custody of the unborn child not be awarded to her.

Her husband, part owner of a restaurant, announced promptly that he didn't want custody. However, Judge Fisher ordered him to pay his wife $20 weekly, plus hospital and medical bills connected with the birth.

Judge Fisher continued the hearing until after the birth and said he thought the mother might change her mind once she sees the child.

"It is fortunate despite their feelings that the child will not come into the world unwanted," Judge Fisher commented. "Literally thousands of families would treasure this infant."

Defense Production Act Next On House's List for Action

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has tentatively voted to lift price controls from virtually all consumer goods and drastically reorganize the Wage Stabilization Board.

The ripped and tattered extension of the administration's Defense Production Act faces other sharp changes when it comes up again next Wednesday.

First big vote then will be on a provision requesting President Truman to invoke the Taft-Hartley Law injunction proceedings in the steel strike.

With a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats in control of the legislation, administration leaders concede they have little chance to block adoption of that proposal. Absences have sapped the administration's voting strength.

The Senate wrote a similar request into its version of the extension law.

From the standpoint of the stabilization agencies, the price decontrol amendment hit hardest of all. Sponsored by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) it was tentatively approved by a 146 to 88 standing vote yesterday.

This provision would require the lifting of price controls on articles or services which (1) have sold below ceiling for three months, or (2) are in adequate or surplus supply.

The amendment defines an article as being in adequate supply when it isn't being rationed or allocated. Nothing is rationed now, and only a few metals are under allocation controls.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky), who opposed the Talle amendment, told the House that if it stayed in the bill it would amount to killing price controls.

The provision for reorganization of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) and redefinition of its functions to strip it of any power to intervene in labor disputes was passed by a standing vote of 176 to 61.

Under this amendment, a majority of the members would be representatives of the public, although labor and management also would have representatives appointed by the President. The public members would be subject to Senate confirmation. The board would formulate and recommend general wage stabilization policies, but would be barred from taking any hand in labor disputes.

The present WSB has come under heavy congressional criticism for its union shop recommendation in the steel dispute.

These and other tentative changes in the bill are subject to possible roll calls next week. But truman's lieutenants showed little optimism about overturning the decisions.

The House bill calls for a one year extension, until June 30, 1953, of the wage, price, rent control and allocations sections of the Defense Production Act. It would abolish credit controls.

The present law is due to expire a week from next Monday.

Five Children, All of Family, Burned to Death

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — Five children—the entire family of an orange picker and his wife—were burned to death today in a residence fire.

The 4-room house in East Whittier burned to the ground, the blaze having gone too far before firemen arrived.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Negrete. They were Daniel, 12; Dolores, 8; Anna Maria, 6; Antonio, 4; and Marie Helen, 2.

Deputy Sheriff S. M. Jones gave this account of the tragedy:

A small fire broke out in a closet of the children's bedroom about 11 o'clock last night. The parents put a garden hose through a window and extinguished the blaze.

The children went back to bed. The parents shut the bedroom door and returned to the living room where they sat talking and listening to the radio.

About 2 a.m. they sensed that the house was getting hot. Negrete opened the bedroom door, and was confronted by sheets of flame. He was unable to reach his children.

Mrs. Negrete rushed outside and tried to use the garden hose again, but was unable to get through the window because of flames. By the time the firemen arrived they were able only to cool off the burned wreckage.

Penn's Delegate Group Split Wide Open for GOP's

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, who may be one of the key figures at the Republican National Convention next month, says he's never seen such bitterness as that among this state's 70-member delegation to Chicago.

Backers of both Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) are bidding for Fine's support. So far, Fine says he's uncommitted to either—or to any other candidate.

The governor told a news conference yesterday there's little hope of achieving harmony within his delegation.

The latest Associated Press poll shows 20 of Pennsylvania's delegates committed to Eisenhower, 18 to Taft and 32 uncommitted.

Fine said he may not make his presidential choice before the convention opens.

A week ago yesterday he helped arrange a picnic at Gettysburg, Pa., so Gen. Eisenhower could meet Pennsylvania's delegates. A similar get-together is planned for the delegates with Sen. Taft. In recent weeks the governor also has talked politics with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a Taft supporter, and the convention keynoter.

Saying he has never known such bitterness "as exists between the Eisenhower and Taft followers," Fine asserted:

"I'm sure that even if a majority of (Pennsylvania) delegates were to vote for Sen. Taft on the first or second ballot it would not lead Sen. Jim Duff (James H. Duff, R-Pa) and the Eisenhower followers—at least a fair share of them—into the Taft camp.

"And I am just as much convinced that if a majority were to go for Eisenhower on those ballots that out and out Taft delegates would not follow suit."

Asked what he thought of GOP harmony after the convention has made its choice, Fine declared:

"We can only hope we can compose our differences after July and get together for the general election next November."

Although the Alaskan fur seal spends much of its life in the water, it must learn to swim.

Wild Storm Hits Area Near KC; No One Injured

KANSAS CITY, June 21—(AP)—A severe thunderstorm swept through the Kansas City area tonight.

The storm struck first at Tonganoxie, Kan., about 25 miles west of Kansas City, and at Basehor, 15 miles west of here.

Residents of the Basehor area, fearing a tornado, dived into storm cellars. There were some reports of a small twister, but they were not verified.

Trees, power lines and telephone lines were blown down at Tonganoxie and Basehor. At least one barn was demolished. That was on the T. L. Pouppirt farm.

Heavy rain accompanied the storm. Water stalled at least 100 cars on a low place of U. S. Highway 24-40 west of Kansas City, filling station man reported.

At Leavenworth, Kan., lightning struck at least three homes as 1.81 inches of rain fell.

Noble Mayfield, an employe of the Kansas Power and Light Co., reported to his Leavenworth office by mobile radio that all lights and telephones were out of service at Basehor.

The storm swooped into Kansas City with shifting blasts of wind measured at 74 miles an hour. Trees were knocked over in various sections of the city. Many windows were smashed. Power lines were broken in several places.

The city's traffic slowed almost to a standstill as a deluge of rain caused waves of water to roll across streets at some points.

Soldier Who Wrote Gen. Clark on Riots Demoted to Private

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A 24-year-old soldier who wrote Gen. Mark Clark that U.N. handling of the Koje Island prison camp riots was "repugnant and disgraceful" trades his sergeant's stripes for those of a private first class today.

A special court martial which convicted C. Dean Chase of "disrespect to a superior officer" yesterday, also decreed that he must forfeit $75 a month from his pay for the next six months.

Chase, a regular army man from Salt Lake City, Utah, was well satisfied with the verdict.

"Wonderful, wonderful," he beamed. "I won't be writing any letters of this nature again."

Then he raced to telephone his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leland L. Chase in Salt Lake City:

"Hello, Mom. It's all over. I'm a private first class now."

Chase had faced a maximum penalty of six months confinement and a bad conduct discharge, which would have deprived him of all veteran's benefits.

Hennings Asks Expose Of Oil-Control Trust

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) said today he has asked Attorney General McGranery to expose violation of anti-trust laws by large oil companies he said control the world supply of oil.

Hennings said in a statement that he wrote McGranery asking him to present to a grand jury facts in a secret federal trade commission report about the situation.

Hennings added that he had received a letter from President Truman saying he had decided to delay release of the secret FTC report to the public because he thought it might adversely affect U. S. foreign relations.

Hennings said he regretted this decision.

He said he was also urging congressional committees to consider the report privately with a view to recommendations to the next session of Congress.

"The unlawful activity of these oil companies is not just an ordinary garden variety of anti-trust violation but strikes at the heart of the American free enterprise system," Hennings said.

52 Governors Meet In Texas Next Monday

HOUSTON, June 21—(AP)—The governors of the 48 United States and four territories gather here next week to talk of many things. Of taxes and education and highway construction.

But the expected chief topic of the 44th governors conference—politics—is pointedly left off the official program. All of the governors of the U. S. and all but one of the five territories have accepted invitations to the meeting, scheduled for the swank Shamrock Hotel June 29-July 2.

The program that the governors will open-a program bound in the hide of unborn calf-lists round table discussions on tax and fiscal policy; higher education, highway safety, construction and operation. It doesn't mention that Gov. Earl Warren of California is a candidate for the GOP nomination; that Gov. John. S. Fine of Pennsylvania may hold the GOP nomination in his hand with his big bloc of uncommitted delegates; that Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas—who controls 52 uninstructed votes to the Democratic convention—symbolizes the South's demand for more voice in Democratic party's platform and affairs.

But these and a score of other pointed political topics hold the real interest in the conference.

Most observers expect the real news of the conference will come in the comment of the governors on topics purely political. Comment that may include remarks on the latest statements of various candidates for the presidential nomination of both parties.

GI Drowns At St. Louis After Striking Head

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—Pvt. John P. Drechsler, 21, of Westminster, Md., drowned tonight in an amusement park swimming pool, apparently after striking his head on the pool floor after a dive.

A companion, Pvt. Paul Merola, 24, of Quincy, Mass., told police he was standing on a high diving board when he heard Drechsler call "Paul."

He didn't see him and didn't think any more about it, he said, until another swimmer found the body at the bottom of the pool.

The soldier was stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Putnam Feels Controls Lift Will Cost All

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said today lifting of price controls from consumer goods would cause costs to soar so sharply present prices would "look like bargains."

Price Administrator Ellis Arnall agreed with Putnam that such a move by Congress would make the controls law a "monstrosity" and "completely unworkable."

Arnall told a meeting of the Eastern Labor Press News Conference he would recommend that "we do away with price controls entirely" if the decontrol amendment passed tentatively by the House yesterday becomes law.

Putnam in a statement earlier accused the House of a "to-hell-with-the-consumer attitude" for approving the amendment by Rep. Talle (R-Ia) to exempt from price controls all items and commodities not rationed or allocated.

This covers virtually all things housewives buy, as there is no rationing at present, and only a very few items—such as scarce metals—are allocated.

In his sharply-worded statement, Putnam expressed hope the lawmakers would change their minds — and their votes — when they resume action next week on the Defense Production Act designed to extend wage, price, rent and other controls.

US Presses New Inquiry Of Lattimore

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—An investigation into the plans of Owen Lattimore, which the Far Eastern specialist said today do not include any trip behind the Iron Curtain, is being pressed by the government in the wake of its order slamming the country's exit gates to him.

The State Department announced late yesterday that it had ordered customs exits barred to Lattimore while it looks into a tip, which it said came from an official source, that he was planning a visit to Russia or her satellites.

At his home in Baltimore, Lattimore said there was no truth—"none whatsoever"—in any such reports. The State Department itself had said the tip was unconfirmed, and it gave no additional clues as to its origin.

The order barring Lattimore's departure from this country, it was learned from reliable sources, will stand until the inquiry has been completed. That may come within a week.

What will be done about the man then-whether it will be removed or whether some other kind of ruling will be made—is something that officials declined to comment on today.

Lattimore, a professor at Johns Hopkins University and at times in the past a consultant to the State Department, has been a controversial figure since Sen. McCarthy R-Wis denounced him as a Communist agent.

Lattimore has vigorously denied McCarthy's accusations against him. He has insisted frenquently that he never had any Red Connections.

He has appeared several times before congressional committees looking into various phases of Communism. It seemed likely that he would be called back for questioning by some such group as to whether he planned to visit Russia or one of the satellites, but no such plans had jelled.

Lattimore said he had been thinking of accepting a proffered job teaching at the University of New Deli in India, and had talked with Johns Hopkins superiors about the possibility of a year's leave of absence.

UN Team Proves Russians Alter Attitude On PWs

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, June 22—(AP)—Allied negotiators return to the armistice meetings today curious about Red reaction to disclosure that world Communism's senior partner—Russia—has advocated voluntary repatriation of war prisoners.

Twice during World War II the Russians offered German war prisoners a choice of whether they wanted to be repatriated. Maj. Gen. William Harrison, Allied senior delegate, told the surprised Red negotiators at Panmunjom Saturday.

Chinese and North Korean insistence that prisoners can not have a voice in their return is the key issue blocking an armistice.

The Soviet Union offer was made at Stalingrad in January, 1943, and Budapest later. And it was applauded by an official Russian publication, Harrison said. The Communist delegation had no immediate comment.

In a fruitless 30-minute session, the first after the second Allied-imposed three-day recess, senior Red delegate, North Korean General Nam Il, retiterated the Red opposition to voluntary repatriation and acidly turned down any new screening of Allied-held POWs.

Phil Donnelly Says Welch Distorts Facts

FULTON, Mo., June 21—(AP)—Phil Donnelly said today a speech Rep. Phil Welch made here Tuesday contained insinuations about his record as governor.

The two are seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

In a talk at the courthouse here today Donnelly quoted Welch as saying that if elected governor "the decisions of that great office will be made in that office and not in some remote board of directors' room in St. Louis or some back room of a tavern in Kansas City."

Donnelly said the people of Missouri "know my record as governor," and invited Callaway County voters who had questions about his policies in office to talk with W. C. Whitlow, Fulton attorney who was his legal secretary.

Several Streams Flood In Northwest Missouri

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 21—(AP)—Northwestern Missouri streams were flooding tonight as a result of Friday night's heavy rains.

In Holt County a broken levee on the Little Tarkio River sent water 10 inches deep coursing through the streets of Bigelow, a small town of about 150 population, tonight. Residents moved their belongings to second-floor levels and stayed in their homes.

The Nodaway River also was out of its banks about 17 miles northwest of St. Joseph.

The Missouri River surged up three feet here today and is expected to crest about two feet over bankful in the morning.

Russell Denies Deal To Prevent A Kefauver Win

BOISE, Idaho, June 21—(AP)—Sen. Richard Russell labeled as "utterly without basis of fact" tonight charges that a Sevenson-Russell ticket is contemplated to keep Sen. Estes Kefauver from getting the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Gael Sullivan, a backer of the Tennessee Senator, said that Russell's backers are trying to stop Kefauver with a ticket headed by Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the presidential nominee and Russell as his running mate.

"Sullivan, who is a typical machine politician, will resort to any means to get publicity and undertake to confuse the public," Russell told a reporter. "He recognizes my strength; I am not surprised by his tactics.

"His statement is utterly without basis of fact. He will be unable to bolster Kefauver's failing campaign by such tactics. I have repeatedly stated I am not interested in the vice presidency."

Asked if he would refuse to be Stevenson's running mate, Russell reiterated that "I have repeatedly stated that I am not interested in the vice presidency."

He claimed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is losing strength because of his "foolish statements."

VA Sums-Up 8-Year Life Of GI Bill

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—The eighth anniversary of the GI Bill for World War II veterans comes up tomorrow, so the Veterans Administration today summed up what has been done for veterans under its three major benefit provisions.

The VA said one benefit still in full force, with five more years to run, is the program of guaranteed loans for homes, farms and businesses.

The free education and training program is on the decline, with most veterans losing their eligibility to participate last July 25. The provisions for readjustment allowances for unemployment and self employment ended for most veterans on July 25, 1949, although there are still some few remaining eligible GI's applying for such aid.

Loans Total 3-Million

Under the loan program, which will come to an end for most veterans on July 25, 1957, so far more than three million lonas totalling about 18 billion dollars have been issued with the VA guaranteeing or insuring about half the total.

Ninety per cent of the loans were to veterans for homes, the remainder for farms and businesses.

The VA said "Veterans have proved to be good loan risks." Then it added statistics to show that only one-half of 1 percent of the home loans have been defaulted to the point that the VA had to make good on its guarantee. For farm loans claims have been paid on 2.6 per cent due to defaults, with the business loan defaults running 4.8 per cent.

50 Per Cent Go To School

During the eight years of the education and training program some 7,800,000 veterans, more than half the 15,200,000 of World War II, took some GI Bill training in schools, on the job or on the farm.

So far about nine million veterans have drawn readjustment allowances which totalled $3,200,000,000 for unemployment and 600 million dollars for self-employment.

The VA said that although most veterans were eligible for a full year of such allowances, only one in 10 exhausted his rights. The average veteran, VA added, found a job after being on the rolls for only a month and a half.

Power Mower Causes Freak Injury To Girl

ATLANTA, June 21 — (AP) — Harry Shindelhower was cutting his lawn with a power mower today while his six-year-old daughter, Miriam played about 20 to 30 feet away.

Suddenly the mover struck a wire coat hanger, straightened it out and hurled it, arrow-like, at the child, hitting her on the right side of the neck.

The wire drove through the neck and eight to ten inches into the chest where it punctured and partly deflaterd one lung. The hanger was removed at Grady Hospital and she was reported doing well several hours later.

Throughout her freakish ordeal, Miriam cried very little and even managed a smile for a news photographer before the wire was removed.

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS NOW PERMANENT FOR REST OF SEASON

Friday morning the managers of the Little League Major League teams met with Dick Sklar, player-agent for Little League, and chose their permanent list of 15 players each for their teams. These teams will not be changed for the remainder of the season, except in cases of sickness or if a boy should move from Sedalia, then a minor league player may be brought up to fill the vacancy. The list of the permanent teams is given below.

A discussion was held on the manner of selection of an All-Star team which would represent Sedalia Little League in the Missouri State District playoffs which will be held at the conclusion of the season.

It was pointed out that the makeup of any Little League All-Star team would be on the following basis: five players in the 12 year age group, five players in the 11 year age group and five players in the 8 to 10 year age group.

Player-Agent Sklar pointed out that although the major league teams were now permanently set, that the minor leagues would continue to accept all boys who want to play baseball, and that application to play may be made with Bert Hathaway.

DAR Observes Flag Day With Luncheon Meeting

Thirty-six members of Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, attended the 1 o'clock Flag Day luncheon held at Flat Creek Inn on Saturday, June 14.

Arrangements of red poppies, white hydrangeas and blue larkspur carried out the patriotic theme in the table centerpieces and at each place was a small corsage of the same flowers.

Mrs. Roy Coplen, regent, presided over the meeting and Mrs. W. T. Tucker, program chairman, presented Mrs. Phil Burford, who gave a most interesting and unusual talk on "The Flag of the United States of America."

The word flag, Mrs. Burford said, comes from the Scandanavian "flagern" and flags of many of the peoples of Europe who come to America in the early days.

Lief Erickson came 400 years before Columbus discovered America as reported in the history books. Columbus brought the flag of Spain to America on Oct. 12, 1492. Since then, the flags of England, France, Holland, Scandinavia, Sweden and Finland have flown over this land. Everyone leaves a bit of himself behind him and the peoples of these flags have had their part in making our flag, the speaker said.

Our flag has been one of slow growth. The general story is that the first flag was made from a soldier's white shirt, a woman's red petticoat and a piece of blue cloth from the cape or coat of Capt. Abraham Swartout, Mrs. Burford said. However it originated, it is our flag, and, continued Mrs. Burford, George Washington said he took the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it with white stripes thus showing we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty. The flag represents the soul of our nation, the soul of our constitution, the document that has been recognized by world leaders as the most wonderful work ever struck off by the brain and purpose of man.

Knowing the history of our flag makes us reverence it more as we pledge allegiance to the "Flag of the United States of America," Mrs. Burford concluded.

Mrs. Coplen installed the new officers for the coming two years: Mrs. Edgar Knight, regent; Mrs. T. W. Croxton, first vice-regent; Mrs. D. P. Dyer, second vice-regent; Mrs. W. P. Tucker, secretary, and Mrs. L. H. Hodges, treasurer.

The chapter was adjourned for the summer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white net over taffeta. A net stole covered the strapless bodice and her veil was fingertip length. She wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings as her ornaments. White gladioli made up her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Billy Hampy of Florence, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a green ballerina length dress and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Miss Barbara Ann Mertgen of Florence, another cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a yellow ballerina length dress and carried a boquet of purple gladioli.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parsonage basement. It was decorated with pink and blue crepe paper streamers with white wedding bells.

Your Wardrobe

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

JULY FOURTH IS always a busy and usually exciting holiday. It also means that summer is about half over and you should check your wardrobe and replenish it for the rest of the summer. Many of your dresses and other garments are showing wear by now from excessive laundering and the hot sun. Dark cotton fabrics have made their appearance and they are wonderful for August and early September wear. Smart two piece shantung suits are available in pastel and dark colors—if your vacation is coming in July or August they can't be beat for travel—lunching or shopping. Whatever you buy if it is washable, be sure to follow the washing instructions properly.

If you have an antique picture frame that just doesn't "fit into the picture" as wall decoration; use it as a center piece for your dining table. You can use it just as it is, filled with fruit, such as lemons with a few green leaves (lemon leaves preferred) scattered about.

To make the frame a more permanent decorative piece; have a mirror put in it or a glass with a piece of unusual wallpaper under it. You can still use it as a fruit bowl or place a crystal bowl of ivy on the mirror for effect.

Enlistments After Draft Calls May Have Been Stopped

For the past three months enlistments by men who have taken their pre-induction physical examinations or who have received notice to take the examination has come under a special order by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense in Washington, D. C. The order said that any one who had received his physical examination or who had received orders to report for pre-induction physical could join any branch of the armed services he chose.

However, Mrs. Verna Williams, clerk of the local Selective Service board, has reported that she has not received a notice to renew this order. The result will be that those men who have taken their physical examinations or have merely been called for it, will not be able to join a branch of the armed services. Rather, they will be subject to call from the local draft board.

Unless the local Selective Service board receives a renewal of the order, men under these conditions will be compelled to wait for induction through the local draft board.

Mrs. Williams said, however, that this does not apply to the National Guard. These men may still join the National Guard, but they will still be under orders from the local board.

'They'll Hit 100 mph on Straightaways'

Driver Predicts A Slam-Bang Race Here On July 4th

Straightaway speeds of more than 100 miles an hour probably will be on tap for Missouri fans who turn out for the 2nd annual 100-mile auto race for late model cars scheduled for the State Fair one-mile track Friday, July 4.

This was the forecast this week of Herschel Buchanan, fresh from a race on another mile racing oval, the Tennessee State Fair track at Nashville, where he placed fourth last Saturday with his 1951 model Nash.

Buchanan, winner of the 1951 National IMCA stock car distance racing title, told Secretary Rollo E. Singleton of the State Fair here that his speedometer showed "better than 100" several times on the Nashville track and insisted that the Sedalia raceway is much faster.

"It won't be as dusty, either," Buchanan predicted. "This new chemical compound will stop that, I hear."

New Compound To Be Used

He was referring to a new compound developed in Pennsylvania to prevent dusty race tracks. It has been used widely, and with great success, on eastern tracks. State Fair officials will test it here several days prior to the July 4 event, in order to determine if it will do the job promised.

Buchanan, reporting on the Nashville event, said that Goober Sosebee, nationally known stock car racer from Atlanta, Ga., was the big sensation in that race until forced out by motor trouble while leading at the 60-lap mark. Sosebee is expected to file his official entry for the Sedalia race during the coming week .

The Atlanta driving star has never competed in this area.

Gaylord White of the National Speedways, the organization named to supervise the $3,000 holiday race here, said that at least five new 1952 model coupes and sedans will start the event here.

It Takes New Cars to Win

"The drivers have discovered that it takes the new cars to win races for them, so the trend is to 1952 models."

He pointed out that "Wild Bill" Harrison, Topeka restaurant owner, won the recent Nashville marathon with a 1952 model DeSoto, which he picked up at the factory only the previous week. The second place winner was Ernie Derr, the Keokuk, Ia., chain store manager, whose 1952 Oldsmobile is less than four-weeks-old.

Bob McIlrath, veteran Waterloo driver, is another who will wheel a new 1952 model car on the Sedalia mile oval. His is a Hudson Hornet, the same type car that won six early season events in the southeastern states this year.

FAVORED ENTRY — Marvin Copple, young Lincoln, Neb., bank executive who gets great sport out of racing his 1951 Oldsmobile in stock car races, has entered the second annual Fourth-of-July stock car races at the Missouri State Fair Grounds. Copple, scion of a wealthy Nebraska investments family, is vice-president of a leading Lincoln, Neb., bank. In Sedalia he will be competing against such stock car headliners as Ernie Derr, Cpl. Don White, Bob McIlrath, Herschell Buchanan and many others.

Carl Barbour Signs Contract With Brownies

Mrs. Barbour said that in a long distance call from her son he did not disclose the terms of the contract but stated that he had received a salary plus a bonus.

KC Outfielder Leads Association Batters

CHICAGO, June 21—(AP)—The Kansas City Blues' Vic Power continues to lead American Association batters with a .370 average.

The Blues slugger also has taken the league lead in doubles, with 18.

A .356 average compiled by Jack Dittmer, before he was called up from Milwaukee by the Boston Braves, was second best. Dittmer was followed by Ed Amoros, St. Paul; Don Bollweg, Kansas City, 3.52, and Bob Wilson, St. Paul, .347.

Bolweg leads in runs and triples, with 60 and -0, respectivey.

Other leaders: Bill Skowron Kansas City, 156 total bases. 15 home runs and 62 runs batted in; Wilson, 91 hits, and Jack Cassini, St. Paul, 11 stolen bases.

Ed Erautt of Kansas City held a comfortable margin in the pitching department. He has won 11 and lost only one.

Chuck Stobbs Hands Yanks Another Loss

CHICAGO, June 21—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox beat the league leading New York Yankees for the second straight day today, combining two hits and two Yank errors for a four-run fourth inning that led to a 5-1 victory. The win moved the Sox, in third place behind Boston, to within two games of the Yanks and gave Chuck Stobbs, who yielded six hits, his fourth victory in eight decisions this season. Ed Lopat absorbed the loss, which also evened his record at four wins and four losses.

The Burton Blues girls softball team will play the Lady Levis' Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Center Park diamond.

Browns Break Senator Jinx With 7-3 Win

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns, blanked for 19 innings by Washington pitching, including the last 14 innings Friday, erupted for a six-run sixth inning today to defeat the Senators, 7-3.

Ned Garver, wilder than usual but effective in the clutch, picked up his third successive victory to make his season record 5-6. He allowed seven hits, but had a four-hitter going until the Senators bunched three singles for their final run in the ninth.

St. Louis, meanwhile, tagged starter and loser Wal Masterson and reliefer Don Johnson for eight hits, including Dick Kryhoski's sixth home run off the year.

It was quite a change up after Friday's game, when the two teams battled for 18 innings before the American league curfew ended the contest at a 5-5 standoff.

Garver Gets Key Hit

Kryhoski's homer, good for two runs, combined with Jim Rivera's triple and a base loaded single by Garver to feature the big sixth

Washington, trying for a fourth straight victory, held a 1-0 lead before the Browns got going and received the advantage without the benefit of a hit. Garver walked the first two men he faced in the fifth then threw wild while fielding a bunt to load the bases.

He settled down then, however, and three force plays, one at the plate, brought him out of the inning with only one run scored.

Squeeze Works For Browns

The final Brownie run came in the eighth when leadoff man Kryhoski was hit on the wrist by a Johnson pitch. George Schmees went in to run for him, moved to third on a single and scored on a squeeze bunt by Sammy Miranda.

Washington's second run was scored in the eighth on Jackie Jensen's single and Mickey Vernon's double.

Mizell Twirls Fine 4-Hitter To Beat Boston

BOSTON, June 21 — Rookie Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell gained his first major league shutout for the St. Louis Cardinals today with a masterful four-hit pitching performance that blanked the Boston Braves, 9-0.

Mizell totaled 11 strikeouts while giving up six bases on balls. But the only Tribesman to connect solidly against him was Sid Gordon who had a double and a single.

The Cards backed Mizell, who now has a 2-5 record, with a 12-hit attack against Boston pitchers Max Surkont, Bob Chipman and Sheldon Jones. Red Schoendienst knocked in four of the runs with a two-bagger and a pair of singles.

Surkont gave up the initial St. Louis run in the first inning, when Solly Hemus doubled, advanced on a wild pitch and romped home after Schoendienst flied to deep left-center.

Schoendienst's first single and Stan Musial's triple off the right field screen added a second marker in the third inning. Surkont then settled down until the seventh, during which the Cardinals added four more runs on as many hits, two bases on balls and a struck batter.

And a pair of hits, a wild pitch and an error with Jones throwing gave the Cardinals two more tallies in the eighth.

Marty Marion Still Waits For The Birth of a Son

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—"It looks like we'll have to have female ball players." St. Louis Browns' manager Marty Marion commented following the birth of his fourth daughter tonight.

The girl, still unnamed, weighed 8 pounds, 2 ounces at St. Louis Maternity Hospital. Both he baby and Mrs. Marion were reported in good condition.

Bush Recalls Final Homer The Babe Hit

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — (AP) —Guy Bush remembers only too well the 714th—and last—home run the late Babe Ruth hit in baseball's major leagues.

Bush was the pitcher who served up that circuit clout, and he explained during a recent visit here that "the last time I saw the ball, it looked like a marble."

The date was Mar. 24, 1935, at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh. Bush was hurling for Pittsburgh, while Ruth—virtually at the end of his record-setting career—was outfielding for the Boston Braves.

Ruth cracked three homers that day in what proved to be his own flamboyant farewell. The first one was off Red Lucas. But it was that last one which etched itself in Bush's memory.

"The ball sailed high over the upper deck in right field, and I guess it must have rolled for miles," said the former major leaguer who now manages the Battle Creek, Mich., Belles of the American Girls League.

He could have added that it was the first time anyone ever had driven a ball out of Forbes field at that spot. The feat was not duplicated for another fifteen years.

Shortly after that big May 24, Ruth quit as a player. The very next day, in Cincinnati, he went down on strikes three times and popped up once in the face of Si Johnson's low, slow curves.

The 49-year-old Bush, who hurled for 14 years for the Chicago Cubs in addition to serving Pittsburgh, the Boston Braves, the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati, loves to recall his experiences.

But on a stop here with the Battle Creek Belles, the conversation returned again and again to Ruth's last homer.

Bush always has felt that there there was something distinctive about being the pitcher who served up the last "fat" one to the game's greatest slugger. It was number 714 in the Bambino's career.

Ex-MU Gridder Signs-up With Washington Redskins

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Bill Houston, a 240-pound fullback on the University of Missouri football team last year, signed today to play professional football with the Washington Redskins.

Houston, who is 6-feet-3 and was an all-around athlete at the University, is a native of St. Louis. He is the 32nd player to be signed by the Skins this year.

Rain Cancels Third Round Of PGA Meet

LOUISVILLE, June 21—(AP)—A series of violent thunderstorms, bringing gusty winds and drenching rains, added to the "debacle of Big Spring" today and forced the first postponement in the PGA Golf Championship in 12 years.

Still staggering from the first day carnage which saw elimination of Champion Sam Snead, medalist Dutch Harrison and a host of other big name stars, the tournament committee found it necessary to put off third round matches until tomorrow.

Sixteen survivors, half of them little known pros who meerged in yesterday's rebellion of the underdog, will tee off, starting at 8 a.m. (CST), in quest of quater-final berths.

The storm struck early last night and continued, almost unabated until mid-morning. A tremendous oak tree near the 18th green was split by wind and some water puddles were as big in the course swimming pool.

Similar weather forced a postponement in the semi-finals at Hershey, Pa., in 1940 and in the qualifying round at Oklahoma City Twin Hills Club in 1935.

Few Favorites Remain

The one-day interruption gave nerve-rattled followers of the sport a chance to recover from "Black Friday" and take a colder look at the nondescript field left to battle it out for the championship, which now will be decided next Wednesday.

Here are tomorrow's pairings:

Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y., vs. Ray Honsberger, Clarkston, Wash.

Al Smith, Danville, Va., vs. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis.

Roberto De Vicenzo, Argentina vs. Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.

Jack Isaacs, Langley Field, Va., vs. Clarence Doser, Hartsdale, N.Y.

Fred Haas, New Orleans, vs. Milon Marusic, Herkimer, N.Y.

Henry Williams, Kutztown, Pa., vs., Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich.

Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N.Y., vs. Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind.

List Looks Lik Who's He?

Although the list looks more like a "who's he?" instead of a "who's who" in golf, two former champions and four one-time finalists remain in the battle.

The two ex-titleholders, Ghezzi, and Hamilton, happen to clash in the third round. Ghezi, giant stylist from Inwood, won the 1941 crown at Cherry Hills by beating Byron Nelson, 1-up. Hamilton also conquered Nelson in winning the 1944 finals, 8 and 7.

The runners-up are Burkemo, beaten by Snead in 1951; Williams who lost to Chandler Harper in 1950; Harbert, 1947 loser to Jim Ferrier, and Turnesa, second youngest of the famous brothers, who bowed to Snead in 1942.

The field lists only three of the top 30 money winners—Middlecoff, fifth; Kroll, eighth, and Turnesa, 23rd. None of the top finishers in the recent Open is around.

The prime favorite is Memphis' tall, good looking Dr. Middlecoff, who was made to stand in the corner five years by the PGA although during that time he won National Open title (1949) and more than $85,000 on the money circuit.

The Tennessee iron-master had to serve the usual apprenticeship so this is his first PGA.

BROOKLYN, June 21— (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded for nine runs in the eighth inning tonight to break up a close game and thrash the Pittsburg Pirates, 14-4. Andy Pafko drove home four runs during the rally on a homer and a single. The victory was Brooklyn's tenth straight over the Pirates.

Calumet Filly Nears National Championship

CHICAGO, June 21—(AP)—Calumet Farm's speedy filly, Bubbley, today became a contender for the national juvenile filly championships with a sparkling two-length victory in the $17,925 Pollyannan Stakes at Arlington Park.

In the second stakes event, the $23,225 Warren Wright Memorial, Red Charger, at odds of 19-1, snatched a protested head victory from the favorite, Hannibal.

A free-betting crowd of 24,759 made Bubbley, a two-year-old daughter of Bull Lea-Blue Delight, a 4-5 favorite. She was masterfully ridden by Jockey Eddie Arcaro who registered his 2,997th victory in his brilliant 21-year riding career.

Tut Bartzen To Meet Hal Surface In Final Of KC Tennis Tourney

KANSAS CITY, June 21—(AP)—First-seeded Sgt. Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Ft. Sill, Okla., convincingly defeated UCLA's youthful Larry Huebner, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0 today to move into the men's singles finals of the Heart of America's Tennis Tournament.

Baltzen, a two-time member of William and Mary's NCAA championship team, had trouble only in the second set. He blew a 4-1 lead by losing four straight games but recovered control in time to stop the Pacific Coast collegian's rally.

Bartzen meets veteran Hal Surface of Kansas City in tomorrow's finals. Surface earlier eliminated the bespectacled Clif Hayne of the University of California, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Mexico's 18-year-old Francisco (Pancho) Contreras gave a brilliant performance in beating Bill Quillian, University of Washington, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-0, for the junior championship.

The boys' singles title was won by Art Andrews of Iowa City, Iowa, who defeated Bobby Macy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-4, 6-0.

In one of the finest junior matches ever played on the beautiful Hickholl Tennis Club's clay court, Mexico's junior champion and fifth seeded men's player didn't make a mistake in the fourth and final set as all of his shots were near perfect.

Hal Surface, Jr., veteran Kansas City player, advanced to the finals of the men's singles, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1, over Clif Ayne, University of California.

Lucille Davidson, Lee's Summit, Mo., won her women's singles semi-finals, 6-2, 6-1, over Jean Langenberg, St. Louis.

Koslo's Work Enables Giants To Beat Cubs

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo turned in a fine relief performance today as the New York Giants defeated Chicago, 6-2, to extend the slumping Cubs' losing streak to seven games.

Koslo came on cold in the 2nd inning after George Spencer making his first start of the season, developed a blister on his pitching hand.

The veteran blanked the Cubs on five singles until the ninth, when John Pramesa opened the inning with his first home run of the season. Dee Fondy followed with a triple and scored after Randy Jackson flied out.

Omar (Turk) Lown started for Chicago and was tapped for three runs and seven hits in six innings. Joe Hatten pitched the seventh and eighth and was tagged for New York's final three runs on home runs by Bob Thomson and Alvin Dark.

Lumpe Draws Key Walk As Joplin Wins, 3-2

JOPLIN, Mo., June 21—(AP)—Norm Siebern doubled home Charles Bigham with one out in the ninth here tonight as Joplin made it two straight over Fort Smith, 3-2, as Don Yannen of the Indians and Frank Lucas battled it out in a sharp pitchers' duel. The hit was Siebern's third of the night and came after Jerry Lumpe was given an intentional pass.

Santee Stars As US Builds Olympic Team

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 21 —(AP)—Walt Davis, the towering Texan, Harrison Dillard, an Olympic veteran; and lean young Wes Santee of Kansas set a brilliant standard today in the National AAU Track Championships, pointing the way to a powerful American team in the summer games in Helsinki.

Davis high jumped 6-feet-10½ to set a new meet record, only one half-inch below the world record of Les Steers set in 1941. In second place came Arnold Betton of Drake and Emery Barnes of Oregon, who cleared 6 feet 9⅜ inches.

Davis tried for a new world record of 6-feet-11 7/16 but missed three times the first narrowly.

Dillaard flashed a convincing comeback to win the 110-meter high hurdles in 3:13.7, aided by a slight wind. Santee, the 20-year-old distance sensation won the 1,500 meters in 3:49.3.

Other highlights of the final tuneup before the Olympic tryouts June 27-28 in Los Angeles were:

Mal Whitfield's defeat of George Rhoden in the 400 meters last night in :46.4.

O'Bien Beats Fuchs

Parry O'Brien's shot put of 57-feet-3⅝ inches besting Jim Fuchs, the world record holder.

Andy Stanfield's time of :21.1 in winning the 200 meter.

Three performances in the hop step and jump over 50 feet won by Walter Ashbaugh of the U.S. Army at 50-feet8¾.

The return to form of Reg Pearman, formerly of NYU, who took the 800 meters in 1:53.5.

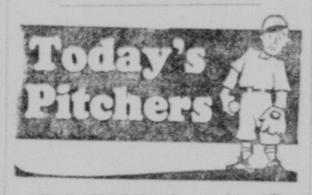
Dillard showed he is ready to challenge for the Olympic hurdling title that was denied him last time when he broke down in the final tryouts. Dillard went on to win the Olympic 100 meters in 1948, but this time he is aiming at the high hurdles, his specialty. He led all the way, beating Jack Davis of Southern California by a yard.

Santee Proves Ability

As for Santee, he proved beyond any doubt that he can challenge the Europeans in the distances. Last week he won the 5,000 meters in the National Collegiates in the good time of 14:36.3, and today he opened up 20 yards on Waren Wreutzler of the U.S. Army in the last lap in the 1,500. His mark of 3:49.3 was one half second faster than the winning time in the last Olympics.

Santee may try to make the team in both events. This 145 pounder stands six feet one inch and runs like the great Europeans, with comparatively short easy strides.

Walter Baker, Kansas State, was fourth in the finals of the 200 meter dash, won by Stanfield. Baker had placed second in the first head to qualify for the semi-finals and third in the semi-final heat.



NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—Probable pitchers for tomorrow's major league games (won and lost records in parenthesis):

Kiwanis Grab League Lead In Little Loop

In Little League major league contests Friday the Kiwanis defeated the Elks, 19-7, to take the league lead and push the Elks in the cellar. Twenter was the winning pitcher. He allowed but six hits to coast to an easy win. Sutton took the loss.

Barnes lead the Kiwanis hitting attack connecting for two out of two and scoring two runs. Drew the right fielder drew four walks to become the Eddie Stanky of the Little League. Beymer lead the losers getting two for three.

In the second game the Jaycees turned back the Rotary, 15-12, to pull into a two-way tie for second place, a full game behind the high-flying Kiwanis team. Abney was the winning pitcher, and Sutton was the loser, Walch coming in in relief.

Holman lead the Jaycees ten-hit attack getting two for three. Miller lead the losers, connecting for three hits in as many times to the plate.

Satchel Earns Rest With 10-Inning Stint

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(AP)—Age didn't catch up with Satchel Paige during his brilliant 10-inning relief job last night and early this morning, but he overslept today.

When St. Louis Browns manager Marty Marion was told his star relief man would be late, he commented:

"Let him roll over and snore a couple of more times."

As it turned out the Browns didn't need Satch this afternoon, as Ned Garver had the Washington Senators under control, 7-3.

The Friday night game was halted by the American league curfew after 18 innings with the Senators and Browns tied 5-5.

Satch, usually considered a three or four-inning relief hurler, allowed just five hits in his 10 frames.

Chiefs Close-In On Flag

Brown Handcuffs Bombers; Sedalia Can Clinch Pennant With A Win Tonight

Smashing out a 13-hit assault the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs defeated the Brookfield Bombers, 16-1, Friday night at Liberty Park behind the six-hit pitching of Manager Bob Brown. This is the third straight win for Brown after losing to Columbia in a relief roll.

The Chiefs now have to win at lease one of their next two to clinch first place in the first half of the CEMO Ban Johnson league.

The Sedalians will play the Columbia Chevrolets Sunday night at Liberty Park diamond. The Chevrolets have been the only club to have any success against the Chiefs, as they edged them 9 to 8 in a ten-inning thriller June 5, at Columbia.

Bob Brown struck out 12 men Friday, facing but 32 batters he gave up no walks. He has 31 strike-outs in the three full games he has worked and has walked only six. Brown has allowed the opposition just eight runs on 18 hits for an average of 2.76 earned runs per game.

Bombers Score First

The Bombers broke on top in the first inning as they scored one run on two hits, and a stolen base.

The Chiefs were set down in order in the bottom half but came back in the second for seven runs on five hits. Holst lead off with a walk, Lane loaded the bases on a safe bunt, Cichran struck-out, Broaddus then singled to drive Holst and Weist home; Brown followed with a hit sending Lane across the plate; Thomas reached first on a fielder's choice, loading the bases; Higgins then singled scoring Broaddus and Brown; Bartlett then grounded out third to first; Holst, who led off the inning, then tripled to deep center to drive Higgins home. Weist ended the rally striking out.

In the fourth they tallied two more when Higgins doubled, Bartlett tripled and Weist singled.

Chiefs Rally in Seventh

In the seventh the Chiefs rallied for six more runs on three hits as eleven men batted. Lane lead off with his second infield hit and went to second as Cichran reached first on an error; Broaddus singled driving in Lane, Brown walked to load the bases; Thomas then bunted to score Cochran and reached first on the error; Higgins hit to score Broaddus and Brown was out at the plate trying to score on Bartlett's ground ball; Holst then walked, scoring Thomas. Weist made first on a fielder's choice, scoring Higgins, Lane reached first on an error scoring Bartlett; Cochran then lined to the shotstop, who stepped on second for the twin killing.

They picked up one more in the eighth on a hit by Broaddus and a stolen base and two infield ground outs. Thomas got the RBI grounding to the second baseman, who flipped to first for the second out.

Bod Lane, Don Broaddus and Don Higgins lead the Chiefs hitting attack getting three for five and three for six respectively. Belzer got two for four for the losers.

Speed, Boxing Ability Makes Difference

'Sugar Ray' Favored To Stomp Maxim

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Can Ray Robinson spot Joey Maxim 13 pounds and win his third world's boxing championship?

The answer will come on Monday night (June 23) when Maxim, who was christened Guiseppe Antonio Berardinelli 30 years ago in Cleveland, risks his light heavyweight crown in the Yankee Stadium ring.

Robinson, who was born in Detroit 32 years ago, has been rated as the best fighter pound-for-pound in modern times by the boxing experts. However, some of them feel he has gone back the last few years.

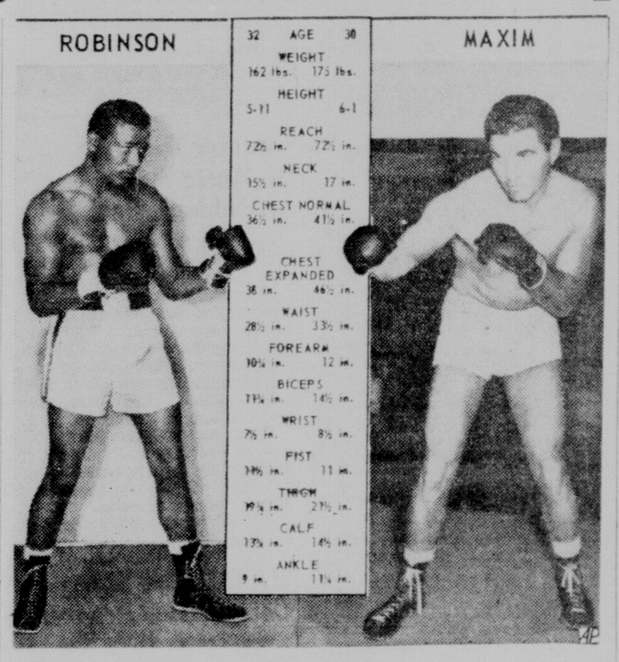
Variation Of Weights

They also point out that Maxim, who often scales over the 175-pound limit, has fought heavier men. Maxim must come into the Robinson fight 175 pounds, or less. Robinson expects to weight close to 162 pounds. Heaviest he ever weighed was 157½ when he stopped Rocky Graziano in April.

Sugar Ray's weight will be unusual in that less than two years ago he weighed 147 pounds. That was in August of 1950 when he successfully defended the world's welterweight title against Charley Fusari in Jersey City.

A year ago February, Robinson outgrew the welter ranks and knocked out Jake LaMotta in Chicago in 13 rounds for the middleweight crown.

LaMotta, incidentally, is one of the two boxers who have beaten Robinson. That happened in 1943 in Detroit, but Robinson beat LaMotta before that and four times since. Robby's other loss was to Randy Turpin in London last July. Two months later in Yankee Stadium, Robinson avenged his loss to Turpin with a 10-round knockout which enabled him to regain the middleweight title.



True, Maxim should be able to handle Robinson as far as weight is concerned, but the fighter being handled by Jack Kearns is neither a knockout puncher nor a master boxer. Robinson is both.

The vote here is that Robinson will take Maxim and become the first boxer to win three world's titles since Henry Armstrong won the feather, lightweight and welter crowns. Bob Fitzsimmons also won three crowns but he retired after having been heavy-weight champ. He returned to win the light heavy crown. He first held the middleweight honors.

The tale of the tape favors Maxim in weight, height and build. However, both Robby and Joey have the identical reach of 72½ inches. And Robinson will not be the easy target Maxim usually faces.

Maxim's record shows that he has beaten many comparative unknowns. His best bouts probably have been against Gus Lesnevich, whom he decisioned for the light heavy title in 1949, and against Freddie Mills whom he stopped in 10 rounds in London two years ago last January.

Maxim has met and lost to Ezzard Charles five times, the most recent loss taking place in San Francisco last December. He once beat Joe Walcott but that was in the summer of 1946 before Walcott had ever dreamed he would someday be heavyweight champion. In 1947 Walcott beat Maxim in Philadelphia and in Los Angeles.

Besides his six losses to Charles and Walcott, Nat Fleischer's records show Maxim has been beaten by the following: Orlando Trotter, Booker Beckwith, Jimmy Bivins, Altus Allen, Lloyd Marshall, Johnny Flynn, John Thomas, Phil Muscato and Joe Kahut. Some of them never amounted to much as ringmen.

In 1943, Maxim was stopped in one round by Curtis Sheppard. It's the only knockout on Maxim's record. Robinson will be out to alter the record books.

Trials Open Wednesday

Cards To Hold Tryout Camp At Jeff City

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — George Silvey, Cardinal minor league secretary and tryout camp director, has announced that he and Red Bird Scout Joe Monahan will operate the tryout camp to be held at Washington Park in Jefferson City on June 25 and 26.

Silvey has been connected with the Cardinal organization since 1932 when he first signed with Lincoln, Nebr., of the Nebraska State League. He was a star player in the minors, a playing manager, later business manager and scout. He assumed the position of secretary of the Red Birds' 15 minor league clubs in 1949.

Monahan has been connected with pro baseball since 1935, except for a period during World War II. Following his return from the service Monahan joined the Cardinal scouting staff.

"We'll be looking for young ball players who we believe have the potential to be developed into big leaguers; we're not looking for the finished product," Silvey pointed out.

"Our farm system consists of clubs in every classification of baseball. Today we definitely have the best system of any organization in either major league for the advancement and development of new talent," Silvey said.

Workouts each day for interested players between 17 and 23 will get under way at 11 a.m.

Players must furnish their own shoes and gloves, and a uniform if they have one. Expenses incident to attending the Jefferson City tryout camp will be refunded to players who are signed to a contract in the famed Red Bird farm system.

Fillies To Run For $30,000 At '52 Fair

COLUMBUS, O.—Two and 3-year-old harness racing fillies will compete for purses worth more than $30,000 in Grand Circuit stakes designed exclusively for fillies and slated to be contested at the Missouri State Fair this year.

The new races, identified as the Breeder's Filly Stakes, were inaugurated this year in order to provide better money-winning opportunities for fillies. In addition to the Missouri State Fair, divisions of the stake will be raced at Goshen, N. Y.; Springfield, Ill.; Du Quoin, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind. and Deleware, O. The Grand Circuit series will gross close to $200,000.

Four separate races will be staged at the Missouri State Fair, one apiece for 2 and 3-year-old trotters and pacers. The filly stakes are part of the regular racing program which is set for the week of Aug. 17-23.

hTe 2-year-old entrants all are newcomers to the racing scene but many of the 3-year-olds nominated are proven veterans of the trotting and pacing wars. Last year's season's champion at both gaits, the trotter Kimberly Mine and the pacer Silent Waters, are entered.

In addition, Wichita Queen and Dinner Date, from the Derby Stable of Wichita; Helen Flynn, owned by E. C. Moriarty also of Wichita; and R. J. Evans' Titania from Kansas City, also are entered for the estimated $5,770 3-year-old trotting prize.

On the 3-year-old pacing side of the ledger, A. L. Derby's Prim Hal will be among those opposing Silent Waters for a $5,245 jackpot. The 2-year-old trot will be worth an estimated $8,535 and the 2-year-old pace $7,435.

The schedule for the Sedalia filly stakes is a follows:

Race	Date	Purse	Eligible Esta.	Four Races Purse
2 year-old trot	Aug. 18	$8,535	43	$26,985
3 year-old trot	Aug. 19	5,770	26
2 year-old pace	Aug. 18	7,435	36
3 year-old pace	Aug. 18	5,245	19

Local Man Owns Clean Slate As A Major League Pitcher

A Sedalia paper-hanger is in one of baseball's rarest group of players—a pitcher with a perfect record in the majors. He's Harold E. Schwenk, 1101 West Tenth, who hurled a 5-4 victory for the St. Louis Browns over the Chicago White Sox on Sept. 4, 1913.

Just a youngster, Schwenk was called up by the Browns for 15 days near the close of the '13 season. He was used only the one time, but he went the route in an 11-inning affair and took the win from the Chisox, who were much higher in the standings that year than the Browns.

In 1911, before he was of age, the Detroit Tigers wanted to sign Harold and farm him out to the Reading, Pa., club. His home then was Schuylkill Haven, Pa., not far from Reading, so his Dad suggested they visit the Reading manager personally before signing-up.

During the visit, the Reading manager asked if he could sign the lead instead of Detroit, and Harold and his Dad agreed. He went with the club that season and was spotted in one game by the coach of a college nine which the team met in an exhibition game.

Next season, having followed Schwenk's success, the college coach called upon him (as a scout for the Browns) and tried to sign him. Schwenk finally put his name on the Brownie contract and went to spring training with the St. Louis team in '13. He went to a Michigan team for most of that summer, was called up by the Browns for the short stay. He then was sold to the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League. He finished the season with Oakland and was sold to Nashville. In spring training of 1914 he hurt his arm and his baseball career was ended.

Earlier, before his Reading experience, he had played in a Western Pennsylvania independent league and with the Cape May, N. J., team in the Seashore League.

He had fully expected to be back in the majors soon, his successes and his age both favoring the return, but the arm injury killed his big league aspirations. He had, however, accomplished what few if any other pitcher had realized—a perfect record in the American League.

Leaders Down Carrollton Here 15 to 7

The Schlitz Leaders of the Central Missouri Softball League met and overpowered the Carrollton Merchants 15-7 Friday night at the 16th and Center diamond.

Sanders started off on the mound for the Leaders, but after giving up eight hits in four innings he was relieved by "Chuck" Branson, who gave up two hits the remainder of the game. The Carrollton hurler, Bob Plackmeyer, gave up 14 hits to the local club.

The leading hitters for Sedalia were: Swisher with four for four and Alderman with three for four. Carrollton divided their batting honors among four men with two out of four.

There were two homers in the game with one going to each team. E. Branes got the local four bagger in the second inning with one man on. Carrollton's grand slam was in the second by Finlayson with none on base.

This win gives the Leaders a 12 won and four lost record with two of the losing games played as practice tilts.

Sunday the Leaders will journey to Marshall where they will play the Marshall Knights of Columbus at 8:30 p.m.

The team will leave from 420 Wilkerson at 6:30 p.m.

Midget Autos To Race Tonight On KC Track

KANSAS CITY — The roster of AAA midget auto racers competing at Olympic stadium here this season has reached 42 and represents 12 states, promoter Dutch Miller announced recently. The season's eighth program gets underway Sunday night with time trials starting at 6 p.m. and the first race at 7.

Roy Bowe, Denver, is the only member of the Olympic circuit who has managed to win two feature events here this season, while the other titles are divided among newcomers to the track and two Kansas City racers.

Another 100-lap AAA championship event is scheduled for Sunday, June 29, with some of the top drivers of the country enlisted for the clash, Miller said.

O. V. Singleton, 25 Years Benton County Agent, Honored

Benton Countians turned out by the score Friday evening, June 13, to pay tribute to O. V. Singleton who has served as county agent there for 25 years. It was a quarter-century celebration for Mr. Singleton by his many friends and was held in the form of a picnic at the Warsaw city park.

Sponsoring the affair were the 4-H Council headed by Lyle Vance Ellis, the Women's Council of Extension Clubs of which Mrs. Wallace Dundas is chairman, the M. F. A. sponsoring board and other friends.

A graduate of the University of Missouri School of Agriculture, Mr. Singleton has constantly remained in front of most agents in screening out the worthwhile in the speedy progress of modern farming methods. The Benton County farm area has benefitted greatly by his steadfast purpose to stop soil erosion on the rocky hills and make them into productive fields, to improve the quality of beef cattle and dairy cows by balanced feeding and care, to create interest in 4-H club work, and many other helpful methods which have meant increasing profits and better living conditions for the local farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Singleton are the parents of five children: Betty now Mrs. Earl Teeter; Robert, who lives in Independence, Mo. with his family; Joan, Mrs. Avis Burton; Jimmy and Judy of the home.

A comparison of the annual reports for the first years of Mr. Singleton's work in the county, and the figures of the recent years show great strides have been made in Benton County agriculture there under his guidance.

Production is up, as shown by the annual reports of bushels per acre, and the amount of limestone and fertilizer used annually has increased ten times.

Besides his farming work, Mr. Singleton has found time to be quite active in community affairs: He has served as: superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school, president and secretary of the Lions club, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, member of the Warsaw board of education, secretary of the Benton County Fair, secretary of the Warsaw Dairy Show and official scorer for softball and baseball games.

British Drinking Hours Cause Visitors to Become Baffled

LONDON (AP) — With coronation year approaching and tourists swarming into the United Kingdom, Britons are giving some sober thought to their drinking habits.

In public they may drink only nine hours a day in London—eight hours outside the capital—at times distributed around the clock in a manner most baffling to visitors. An official of the Brewers Society says Frenchmen and Americans cannot understand why it should be illegal to drink at 4 p.m. but all right in most places at 6 p.m.

The present discussion was touched off by a court order which closed Churchill's, a glittering club in swank Mayfair where persons who could afford a guinea ($2.94) initiation fee could drink up to 2:30 a.m. Some policemen disguise as tourists managed to buy drinks after that hour. Now Churchill's two bands are silent, and $50,000 worth of equipment may have to be turned into just another restaurant.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express commented:

"A West End club is struck off for persistently selling drinks after licensing hours. Fair enough.

"There can be no sympathy with law-breakers. As the law stands, it must be obeyed. But what a fantastic, foolish law it is. Why should not a citizen be able to get a drink when he wants one? . . .

"In this year before the coronation London should be gaining a reputation as the perfect host, not as a dreary wet blanket on simple enjoyment."

Parliament provided that pubs—the man in the street's "club"—may sell drinks eight hours a day, but specified that somewhere in the middle of this legal drinking day there must be a pause—with doors locked—of two hours.

Licensing authorities of various communities spot the two blacked-out hours to suit themselves, with the result that the thirty visitor often is frustrated just when he wants a beer.

"Drinking clubs" are something else. These help the home folks but are of less use to a visitor who doesn't stay long enough to adjust himself to the customs of the natives.

To drink in a club you must be a member and carry a card signed and dated by the honorary secretary, an official who in most cases is hardly to be distinguished from a bartender.

Police license the clubs and in negotiation with the "honorary secretary" adjust a schedule of drinking hours regarded suitable for the community. The club doesn't have to observe the two-hour break."

Juvenile Smoking Curbed

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — City police commissioners recently ordered a crack-down on smoking by juveniles.

A federal act of 1908 prohibits smoking by children under 16 and is authority for police to seize cigarettes from youngsters. Storekeepers selling to children without a written note from their parents may also face charges.

Air Force's Role In Korea Still Debated as War Rages

KOREAN PUZZLE: As the graveyards grow, what has been bought, tactically, strategically or otherwise, for the price?

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — As the Korean war begins its third year, it stands as the greatest military enigma in American history.

And it's a big question as to whether the military puzzle is worse than the one created in the minds of U. S. citizens.

Two years of fighting have cost the U. S. approximately 110,000 casualties including more than 17,000 American soldiers killed in action.

What has been bought tactically or strategically in Korea for this terrible human price, military leaders are hard put to explain. What we have bought ideologically is also a subject of hot disagreement among politicians. Nor can anyone foresee an easy or honorable end to it.

Close to a year of truce talks, although they have boiled down to the single issue of how to handle prisoners of war, have produced only frustration. The outlook today for achieving peace through this means is blacker than any time since the talks started.

At the end of the first year of fighting it was claimed that the Korean war's chief benefit was in alerting America to get strong and build up its forces. On the second anniversary even that gain seems to have been lost in the confusion over strikes, lagging production and so-called stretchout programs.

Even a careful evaluation of the known facts of the Korean stalemate after two years produces only a few solid conclusions.

The battle line runs across the peninsula roughly from a point 50 miles above the 38th parallel at the eastern end to a point slightly below the 38th line at the western end. UN forces hold the best hills and positions along the entire line —at the price of much blood.

Both sides are dug in so well that a breakthrough by either side could only be achieved with terrible casualties. Both sides have their fronts reinforced miles deep with artillery and mortars.

Some intelligence reports say the Reds have more artillery. There have been reports that UN forces are low on large bore ammunition. The fact is that UN troops have been pouring from five to six times as much artillery into the enemy since the stalemate than the enemy has fired into our lines. The Pentagon denies any serious shortage.

Best estimate is that there are somewhere near 1,000,000 Chinese and North Korean troops north of the line, while UN forces are about half that.

Although the Reds used the peace-talk lull to strengthen themselves last year, a review of the period shows some grounds for optimism by the UN command and staggering losses by the enemy.

Total U. S. casualties during the past 12 months were about 32,000, or much less than half of what they were the year before. The bloody struggle for Heartbreak Ridge accounted for about half this loss. During the same time, however, the enemy suffered an estimated 334,000 casualties, or 10 times more than the United Nations—thanks mostly to UN air activity and greater artillery fire.

Although the enemy has been able to reinforce himself successfully, mostly by moving supplies at night and off the main roads, the build-up has been at the cost of great losses. These losses have grown to a very serious drain on Chinese and Russian resources, according to intelligence reports.

The year proved that U. S. forces—better than the American civilians—could stoically sit out a hot war of nerves as well as any Oriental army, and at the same time keep morale high and profit by the experience.

This reporter spent two of last Winter's coldest months at the Korean front and saw firsthand the extremely high morale and cocky defiance of the enemy that exist there, in spite of sagging support for the fight back home.

The highly - efficient rotation system has accomplished a complete turnover of troops in Korea and has given all outfits back home and in Europe a solid backbone of battle-hardened veterans. Military experts say that this gain alone is worth many losses.

Despite the billions spent on weapon development since the war the Army has produced only two new weapons in Korea, a larger bazooka shell and recoilless cannons. Apparently there aren't any new weapons available in quantity. The Quartermaster Corps has made best use of Korea as a testing ground, providing new boots and clothing, new type rations and lightweight body armor, all of which have added materially to the comfort, safety and effectiveness of ground troops.

The fantastic events on Koje Island recently over the handling of rebellious prisoners of war aren't significant in the big picture of the Korean war. The Army is capable of being stupid from time to time.

Perhaps the brightest development of the past two years, for the present situation and the future, has been the training and outfitting of South Korean units. The success in building up the ROK Army could spell the first chance to reduce UN troops in Korea and of being able to pull them out completely in the future.

WASHINGTON — At the dawn of the third grim year of the fighting in Korea, the Air Force role continues to be the most controversial aspect of the war out there.

When it quickly became obvious two years ago that the U. S. planes alone couldn't begin to deter the invading North Koreans, the Air Force came under harassing fire from critics.

They charged:

1. That the Air Force jets were inferior to the propeller - driven F-51s for Korean-type action.

2. That Air Force close - support of ground troops was grossly inferior to that of Navy and Marine aviation.

3. That the halt in daytime heavy bomber raids due to heavy losses of B-29s proved the fallacies of Air Force bombing theories.

4. That "Operation Strangle" was a failure because the Reds continued to build up supplies and front line forces both before and after peace talks began, despite constant air raids on supply lines.

5. That the U. S., with its scientific and industrial know - how, still hasn't got fighters far superior to the Russian Mig; that despite all the money spent for procurement, the Reds have something like 800 jets in Korea compared to our 200 or so Sabres.

6. That in two years, the U. S. Air Force has lost more than 700 planes as against only about 500 enemy aircraft destroyed.

In analyzing what two years of fighting in Korea have proved for the Air Force, an AF spokesman insists that no one ever said planes alone could stop a major land invasion.

He answers the other charges this way:

1. That the need for jets was proved as soon as the Russian jets showed up, and that the Marines, who first claimed superiority for the P-51s, are now buying only jets.

2. That ground support techniques of Marine and Navy fliers have now been combined with those of the Air Force.

3. That B-29s weren't designed to bomb small targets like those left in North Korea, and that while daytime raids were halted because of extreme anti-aircraft fire, B-19s are still effective at night.

4. That "Operation Strangle" cost the enemy devastating losses in men and supplies during the past year's build-up, and that U. S. air power was the margin of difference that allowed us to hold the Pusan perimeter and conduct subsequent successful offensives.

5. That the kill record of the F-86 Sabrejet over the Mig continues to be eight to one; that we haven't more jets out there because the Air Force hasn't been allowed to buy all it asked for.

6. That plane loss figures mean nothing unless related to operations. Air Forceplane shave flown nearly 500 million sorties in 24 months; the Reds haven't flown a small fraction of that. Ground fire has accounted for more than 500 of the 700 U. S. losses.

Summarizing, the Air Force spokesman says the Korean experience is inconclusive because the Yalu River limitation has prohibited full offensive use of American airpower. He says air power is primarily an offensive weapon and can't be judged when its offensive potential is limited by a political boundary.

He does say, however, that Korea has proved once again the inherent flexibility of the airplane, based on the varied jobs it has done successfully in the past 24 months.

From the point of view of enemy air strength, the appearance of their fast jet fighters in great numbers has been the most significant fact of the Korean war so far. Their presence constitutes a constant grave threat to UN control of the air and the ground.

In the past two years at home, the development of the tactical atomic bomb which can be dropped on troops or enemy airfields by jet fighters or bombers holds most promise for future air action in Korea. It could make the difference in stopping an attempted mass breakthrough, and could quickly neutralize Red airfields above the Yalu River in Manchuria, if that action were to be permitted.

Not the least significant job of the past two years has been that of Navy air. Navy and Marine pilots have flown 165,000 sorties, supporting ground troops and bombing refineries, railroads and truck movements.

On the sea the Navy has kept the vital area around the peninsula and Formosa under control and has supplied all of the gasoline and jet fuel to the Air Force, as well as furnished the bulk of the supplies to all UN forces in its cargo ships. Mines have been a constant nuisance but the submarine menace has failed to develop.

Realizes His Ambition, Goes Back to Prison

BALTIMORE (AP)—Raymond Cassidy, 52, of Cumberland, Md., has realized his ambition to go back to federal prison.

But it may not be the Federal Correctional Institution near Ashland, Ky., where he "enjoyed" 10 months last year and had "all the necessities of life."

Cassidy drew a three - year stretch in Federal Court here yesterday for stealing from the U. S. mails. That was as he planned. He told Judge William C. Coleman he wanted to go back to the Ashland prison where he served time on a similar charge.

When things got tough last spring, Cassidy related, he stole two letters from a rural mail box at Pinto, near Cumberland, and destroyed them. He crossed the line to Keyser, W. Va., to surrender but he couldn't get the sheriff there to believe him.

Cassidy returned to Cumberland, stole two more letters, this time he went to the Allegany County sheriff and took the letters as proof.

Judge Coleman decided Cassidy could go back to prison—for three years. But he said it will be up to the attorney general to say whether Cassidy will be returned to his old Kentucky "home."

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Economic union of all the Arab states is a goal of the new Federation of Arab Chambers of Commerce which recently opened its headquarters here.

GOP'S May Not Know But Taft Is Truman's GOP Pick

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The Republicans may be split wide open over whom they want nominated, but there is not the slightest doubt as to who is President Truman's GOP candidate—Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft.

Word to this effect had been passed out among close presidential advisers even before the recent Defense Department tip-off that General MacArthur did not have to retire from active service to be Keynote Speaker at the GOP Convention.

When you know the background of what went on inside the Army before this decision was announced, there is no question but that it was an adroit move to play the two top military men of the nation off against each other—to the advantage of Taft.

Secretary of the Army Pace actually had ordered the Judge Advocate General to make a legal study of MacArthur's military status, and the latter came up with a clear-cut ruling that MacArthur, whether a five-star general or not, was in violation of Army Order 600-10 which bans not only political activity, but specifically bars "activities at political conventions."

Loss Of $19,600

The J. A. G. also ruled that MacArthur was violating the Hatch Act; also dug up an interesting rider tucked into the Appropriations Bill by Congressman James E. Van Zandt of pennsylvania, which explains why MacArthur is sticking to active duty. Under the rider, MacArthur cannot retire and continue to draw his $19,600-a-year pay.

So, naturally, he wants to remain on active duty.

At present, MacArthur is assigned to unspecified active duty at Governors Island, New York, though he never goes there and continues his headquarters at the Waldorf Tower. It would be simple, of course, for MacArthur to request retirement, thereby permitting him to make all the speeches he wants. But in this case government aide, stenographer, and chauffeur.

Thus the President had the man who has so severely criticized him in a tight spot. All Truman had to do was sign an order, and MacArthur would either have had to give up his $19,600 yearly or else quit making speeches.

These facts were put in a letter to the President some time ago by Army Secretary Pace, who privately has been itching to crack down on the man irreverently known around the Pentagon as "Dugout Doug." Furthermore, friends of Eisenhower are vastly more numerous in the Pentagon than friends of MacArthur. They were anxious to see him put in his place.

But the President chose just the opposite course. He completely reversed the Judge Advocate's findings, let MacArthur remain on active duty at the age of 72, and let him keep his $19,600 even though Ike had given up his.

Reasons: 1, Mr. T. hasn't been too happy about the cracks Ike has hurled in his direction after all the bouquets Truman had previously tossed at him; 2. A resounding keynote speech by MacArthur slanted against Ike will not hurt too many feelings around the White House; 3. If Taft is the nominee, it's believed Gov. Adlai Stevenson—Truman's pet candidate—can be persuaded to run (Stevenson doesn't want to run against his old friend Eisenhower); 4, Mr. T. thinks Taft would be easier to beat.

The United States Lines, which is involved in a multimillion-dollar controversy with the Government, has invited members of Congress for a free ride on its Superliner "United States" this week end.

The Liner cost $70,000,000 to build, of which the company paid $28,000,000, leaving the taxpayers stuck for the balance.

Comptroller General Lindsay Warren has been raising cain about this, and has withheld $13,00,000 in subsidies on 40 freighters that the U. S. Lines also negotiated to buy from the govnenmert.

Yet, despite the fact that the U. S. Lines is so deeply indebted to the taxpayers, it is paying all the expenses, including train fare, baggage handling, and free champagne for this gala week end sailing trip. The Company has arranged for a special train to stand by Saturday afternoon to pick up Senators and Congressmen who want to go. They will be taken down to Newport News, Va., and aboard the Superliner, which will sail for New York City, arriving Monday at noon.

Then the Shipping Company will have another train standing by to pick up the Senators and Congressmen and haul them back to Washington.

Many Senators have turned down the invitation because they consider it a brazen attempt to influence their votes. The issue has already been referred to a subcommittee of house expenditures.

Inside fact is that President Truman is straddling the fence between Comptroller General Warery of the ship until the company pays a bigger share, and Secretary Sawyer, who argues that the government is committed by contract to go through with the deal.

Truman wrote Sawyer a private letter saying that he wants the ship delivered on schedule, but that he would suggest leaving the door ajar so that they may be able to get more money out of U. S. Lines later.

Unlike President Truman, Estes Kefauver has expressed the private opinion that Eisenhower, rather than Taft, would be the easiest man for him and the Democrats to beat. Here are his reasons why:

1. If Ike were the nominee, foreign policy would not be an issue. Eisenhower and the Democrats think almost exactly alike.

2. With the campaign centered on domestic issues, Kefauver would be at an advantage, has 20 years of experience coping with the complicated questions of labor legislation, farm ceilings, social security. And while he, Kefauver, cleaned up democratic corruption, the Republicans tolerated influence-peddling Guy Gabrielson as their national chairman, plus the highly publicized activities of McCarthy, Bridges, and Brewster.

Eisenhower, on the other hand, has had no experience in the domestic field, would have to rely on advisers already at swords' points in trying to tell him what to say and do.

3. With Ike as candidate, the campaign would be more honorable and gentlemanly. Taft's supporters already have condoned the worst type of McCarthyism, re-Ike as anti-semitism, sex, and poor health—innuendos which Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania denounced as "the dirtiest tactics I have ever seen in any American political campaign."

Finally Kefauver figures that, with Eisenhower as their candidate, the Republicans would get too overconfident, make the same mistake they made in 1948.

Helicopters Aid Alaskan Survey

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Helicopters are making possible the continent's biggest scale photography and surveying job.

The project will be carried out this summer for the third straight year in Alaska by the 30th Engineer Base Topographic Battalion from San Francisco, a unique unit of the Corps of Engineers.

Survey data is combined with aerial photos to make large scale layouts of militarily important areas in the vast territory. Last year they surveyed 24,000 square miles in 81 days. Thirty-six helicopters are scheduled for the 1952 project.

Democrat Pick-Ups

Odds and Ends By News Staff

Two men were in the hospital at the same time with very similar names, in fact the last name was the same, and they were in rooms right next to each other.

One had had a very serious operation on Friday the 13th, at midnight, but not being of a superstitious nature he didn't mind that, but he sure did mind the puny little bit of food they were giving him—after all he was hungry even if he was sick.

Well, it was breakfast time and the man in the next room with the similar name was getting a pretty nice breakfast, but the trays got mixed and the good breakfast was taken in to the very sick man and he ate every bit. Then another tray was brought in—his own tray with nothing tempting on it.

"Oh," said the girl looking at the empty tray, "You've had your breakfast".

"Yes", said the satisfied man. "I wonder where thistray belongs," said the girl.

"It belongs here instead of this one. "This one was intended for the man in the next room—but you can take that in to him—he can eat that stuff if he wants it."

"Sure", said the man, "The good breakfast caused a few gas pains—but—boy, it was sure worth it." H. L.

A small girl listened as her mother read aloud a letter from her high school cousin:

"When I get through school I am going to be a nurse and will go to a nurses' training school."

"When I grow up I want to be a cowgirl", said the small girl who was listening. "Mommie, where can I go to school to be a cowgirl?" H.L.

It was a favorite porch chair, one of canvas with a little pull-out foot rest where a fellow could really stretch out and a Sedalia man had made himself so comfortable on the front porch of his home.

But the chair was not a new one and the canvas, having been too long out in the weather, gave way in the seat and the man, who is by no means small, went through the frame work of the chair, and there he stuck.

Because his feet were up on the rest, there wasn't a thing he could do—he just couldn't move and his wife, whose sense of humor was greater than her sympathy, just stood there and laughed.

And so he stayed stuck until she quit laughing enough to push the back of the chair up and he fell through completely—and after awhile got himself untangled. H.L.

Two women were making plans for a shower to be given for a bride-to-be and were sending out invitations.

The party was to be at the home of one of them and the other woman was doing her share by writing the invitations.

"I only made two teensie mistakes", she said in telling of writing the invitations and sending them out—"One I put a 'W' in your name instead of the initial 'L'" and the woman on the other end of the 'phone gasped, there was another family in town with exactly the same name except the middle initial was "W" instead of "L", but she thought to herself, "That will be all right because the invitations will have the right address".

About that time the other woman went on with her conversation—"And the other mistake was that I left off your address, but I got the date right".

It looked like the woman with the same name as the hostess was going to have an unexpected shower at her house unless something was done quickly—so, there was nothing left to do but get on the telephone and call all the invited guests to tell them really where the party was to be. H.L.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Everything Rising In Value Today, It Seems, But Wives

NEW YORK (AP) — Ladies, there are storm signals in the news hinting that everything is rising in value today except wives.

Are wives over-inflated? Should they be put under controls? These issues have been raised by two recent items of interest to every thoughtful woman, and by that, of course, I mean every woman:

1. A British judge, granting a divorce to a husband whose wife ran off with another man, cut the husband's claim for damages from $700 to $210, and said:

"Her value to her husband was diminishing from year to year because of disagreements.

2. Dr. Samuel W. Stevenson, a Virginia professor, describing women as "the arch foe," called for a new St. George to emancipate American men and give them four new freedoms, to wit:

"Freedom from nagging, freedom from backseat driving, freedom to relax in old clothes after a hard day's work and freedom from indigestion."

Observing with sad hilarity that men no longer deserved the title "mice" as women are afraid of mice, he said "we have become worms."

It is high time, the good professor added, that men force the restoration of the word 'obey' in the marriage ceremony. He thinks men also ought to decide when they need a haircut, pick their own clothes and their wife's hats and decide whether "the Joneses are to be kept up with or not."

But this was his most revolutionary idea:

"No woman, married or single, shall be permitted to speak of her intuition until she had kept in writing for one year an accurate account of all her snap judgments and has compiled a record of at least 60 per cent accuracy."

The average wife would leap at this chance to show Dr. Stevenson up. Any woman instinctively knows enough about double entry bookkeeping to prove her intuition is at least 99 per cent correct—not a lame 60 per cent.

Nor can we see many wives getting thin from worry over the professor's bugle call for a male rebellion in America. If husbands have become worms in this country it is through sheer laziness, the abandonment of masculine responsibility to the philosophy of "let the little woman do it." Such worms are unlikely to turn in revolt. They don't want any more authority. They'd rather go on being spoiled and petted.

But that British judge's decision is an entirely different matter. It strikes at the very heart of women's theory of power.

Does any wife want it written in the lawbooks that her value decreases "from year to year because of disagreements?" It is an uneasy precedent.

Husbands might start going into court, saying:

"Judge, I want a divorce and don't give me any nonsense about alimony. My old lady and I have had so many disagreements she isn't worth a plugged nickel, and I hereby give her away free."

Wives have just the opposite view. They figure the tears they give a man during their best years have a real dollar value to him.

"Why, if it weren't for the arguments I gave my silly husband we'd both have ended up in the poorhouse three weeks after the honeymoon," is the way they'd sum it up. And it is certainly true that many a husband does need a wife with a permanent rave to keep him from making bankruptcy a habit.

Girls, it might be a good idea to write to the wife of that British judge and tell her to give him a good heart-to-heart talk on the facts of married life.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A bid of A. C. Comstock, Tulsa, Okla., of $202,000 for construction of mains and disposal plant of the Southwest Sedalia Sewer, was accepted by the city council. Prior to the action councilmen were served with notices that a petition for an injunction against the sewer ordinance would be sought.

A number of iron benches ordered some time ago by the county court arrived and were being placed at the court house lawn.

J. Burr Taylor, Kansas City, secretary of the Missouri State Fire Prevention Association, was in Sedalia making a final check on fire hazard conditions in the city before reporting to that body on his findings.

Joseph B. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Sullivan, left for Notre Dame, Ind., to attend Notre Dame University during the summer term.

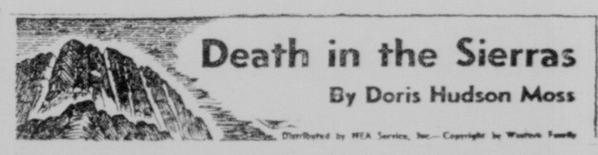
FORTY YEARS AGO

C. W. Denny, county highway engineer, was superintending some special road work in the Hughesville vicinity.

Sylvian Kahn, who with Mrs. Kahn and their daughter, Lucile, are on an European trip, wrote the Democrat they were having a great time visiting places of interest in their whirl of sightseeing. Their letter was from Berlin.

T. W. Bast, Sedalia architect, completed plans for a new city hall at La Monte, work on which was to start at once.

John Arnold, retired merchant tailor, returned from a visit to Boston, Mass., where he was taught the cutters' trade many years ago, going back there merely to look over old 'haunts.'



Death in the Sierras

AS I reached my tent, with Sue close on my heels, Dr. David Roberts came along the trail toward me.

"What have you been up to?"

I started to tell him but he stopped me. "We have searched everywhere for you. Now, my dear, please stay near me hereafter because I know a lot more about all this than you may think. Don't Rosemary, don't take another chance."

"I have something to tell you," I answered as I tried to hide my confusion. "It's about Mrs. Ordell. I've found her alive in a cave under the stream. I saw the murderer and I do believe that these scissors were used to stab her."

As fast as my tongue could fly I told him the story of my adventure, of the evil man who had sunk from sight in the water, of the grave-like cave and of the living body of Mrs. Ordell whom Dr. Roberts himself had pronounced dead. While I talked, David took my topcoat from a peg and slipped it around my shoulders. He caught my hands and held them in his two warm brown ones. It was then that I was honestly sorry that I had tracked the murderer without telling him or Duncan.

"Never mind about Duncan, but I should have thought that you'd have told me, for protection — if nothing more."

I felt my color rise again but continued my story as well as I could. I told him that Mrs. Ordell asked me to tell Bob instead of her husband.

"Yes, that's understandable," the Doctor replied. "She would protect the Professor with all her strength, even to the last. She would keep him from that cave if it were humanly possible."

Finally, I told him about the map and with my finger drew an invisible copy of it on my suitcase.

He stood staring at me and then without comment as to my story he said, "Now that Susie found those scissors, we have the all-damaging evidence of fingerprints. More than that, dear girl, you may have solved the whole case, you and good old Susie. And before I leave I've just got to tell you something though the moment is far from auspicious. To me, time is something that is purely personal. A day may be as long as a year and some years seem no more important than some days. It seems impossible to believe that you and I met for the first time only night before last. These past 36 hours have seemed to me to be the length of months. I've never met a woman like you, Rosemary. You are brave, capable, gifted with conscience, smart and self-confident, though you keep all this carefully hidden beneath your prettiness. I'm in love with you, my dear, and even though you may not care for me, I'll always love you just as instinctively as I love these beautiful mountains."

• • •

WE told Duncan of my adventure. He listened, apparently amazed and made constant jottings in his little book while we talked. Together, the men agreed to tell no one of the new developments.

"But surely you'll tell Sheriff Torrington," I prompted the Sergeant.

"That old tobacco-juicer? Forget it."

"True," affirmed the Doctor. "In this instance there is danger in numbers. If we play our cards properly and wait as though we know nothing, I will gamble that the guilty person falls into the trap of our silence. Just one slip is all we need to show us the killer. Killer he is because even though Mrs. Ordell is still alive, Elsie Martinson is not. And the same person is guilty of both crimes, that seems certain."

Duncan took a fresh hand towel from the peg on the end tent pole and carefully wrapped the scissors in it.

Then he produced a small flask of brandy and poured a bit into the little lidcup. "You're a swell Doc, you are," he laughed at Dr. Roberts. "Why don't you do something to stop this kid from chilling herself to death?"

David turned an embarrassed red while the Sergeant grinned at him in delight.

"Here, drink this, girlie, and you'll begin to feel warmer. Now get into your riding duds and we'll take a ride, that is, if you're able to stick on a horse."

"Oh, I am," I answered. "And don't you dare to leave me.'

"No, we won't." The Sergeant laughed.

I thought hard and fast as I got into my riding breeches and boots and when I emerged from the tent to face the two men who were seated again on the big log, I said, "Sergeant Duncan, I've told you all that I know about this affair. Now I think that you might repay me with a few facts that you possess. Please tell me which person do you think is behind all this? I want to know whom I should be on guard against."

He looked at me sharply and chuckled. "I don't know." And he laughed aloud so hard that he frightened a chipmunk who scuttled up the tall pine nearby in terror.

But his hilarity didn't fool me. He knew something and I meant to find out what.

• • •

AS the three of us walked back to the lodge I asked, "When we were last on this trail we heard a shot. Was anyone hurt?"

They told me that Officer Marguard fired the shot. He saw a man in blue jeans running along the hill behind the kitchen. He called to him to halt but the man ran faster than ever so he fired and then gave chase. But whoever the stranger was, he disappeared.

I knew who the man in jeans was. He was the man I had seen disappear into the lake—no doubt the murderer himself!

States Pass Up Chances On Farm Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Back in the thirties, after the Supreme Court kicked out the first agricultural adjustment act, Congress enacted a soil conservation program. It provided for subsidies up to 500 million dollars a year to farmers for carrying out government-approved soil and water conservation practices. In recent years Congress has been voting only half that amount.

Taking the view that this program should be turned over to the states on a grant-in-aid basis, Congress put it into the hands of the Agriculture Department on a temporary basis.

The states were to set up their own conservation agencies. But when the time came for the department to dole out money to the states to finance their own soil programs, only a few states were prepared.

Congress extended the department's control. Again many states failed to act. The present session of Congress has ordered another extensions.

This is astonishing because all these years several major farm organizations and one major political party—the Republican — have advocated greater decentralization of the farm programs.

Particularly insistent upon state control has been the American Farm Bureau Federation. Officials of that organization say they plan to concentrate next year on state legislatures for necessary action.

The Agriculture Department is not eager to give up the soil program. Its officials contend that a better job can be done through national administration. They say the program as now operated is flexible enough to meet the particular needs of any state or county.

The program is carried out locally through state and county committees of farmers. State committeemen are chosen by the secretary of agriculture, county committee members by the farmers themselves.

Bob Hope to Both Political Conventions, Won't Take Sides

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope will attend the national political conventions in Chicago next month, but he won't take sides. Says he:

"I'm just like a California driver—I stay right in the middle of the road."

The comic, who has done just about everything, will be playing a new role at the Republican and Democratic meets. He'll be a political commentator on television. But it will be strictly for laughs.

"I'm not getting partisan," he remarked. "I'll just comment on what goes on at the conventions and hope I get a few laughs. I'll be on for five minutes every day. There's a room off the main convention hall which will seat about 200 people. I'll do my stuff there. I can't just throw gags at a cold camera; I've got to have audience reaction."

It will be the first time he has attended a presidential nominating convention, and he may be called on to perform before the delegates. At any rate, he will be at all the sessions as observer, in order to get the material for his daily stint.

Hope repeated his long-held credo against comedians' taking a position on political matters. He criticized those who make cracks about President Truman and other public figures.

"It doesn't show good taste or judgment," he said in a rare serious mood. "There are millions of listeners who admire Truman. Besides, everyone should have respect for the office of the President and not do anything to degrade it."

I asked Hope if he thought there could be a successor to Will Rogers, who evoked laughs from his political comments.

"Absolutely not," he replied. "Rogers was great: there can never be anyone like him. A man would be a fool to try to imitate him.

"Back in 1943, I played the White House press photographers' ball before President Roosevelt. It was wonderful, because I was just back from entertaining the troops overseas and I had a lot of timely material. Some columnists then named me as the guy to replace Will Rogers. But I never had any ambition to do that, and I'm not going to start now."

American Love of Good Food Makes Farming Big Industry

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The American love of good food is making farming one of the nation's fastest growing industries.

Despite all the grumbling about food prices, Americans are eating more and better food than did their parents. Since prosperous 1929 the food consumption in this country has doubled, the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland concludes, after adjusting food dollar volume to price changes. Neither the auto nor home building industries can show a unit volume gain equal to that in agriculture as a "growth industry."

If the population continues to grow at its present rate, and if Americans find the money to maintain their present high dietary standards, the market for American farm products in 1975 will be twice what it was just before Pearl Harbor, the bank figures.

Only if the birth rate drops and Americans go back to their diet standards of 10 or 15 years ago, will the future demand for agricultural products fall below present high capacity to produce, the bank says.

Taking a shorter-term view, the American Institute of Food Distribution says almost all retail food store operators expect to go right on, the rest of this year at least, selling more food than last year. They credit the continued heavy spending of prosperous consumers.

Chief factor in recent years has been the ability of lower income groups to enlarge their buying of food, both in the amount they buy and the better quality they can afford. Almost continuous high employment levels and higher wage rates in recent years account for much of this.

The sharp increase in total food sales in this country is due in part to the big baby crops which push population totals higher. But other factors are more important.

Chief is the change that has come over the national diet. Since the depression years lower-priced bulky and starchy foods have lost ground, relatively, to meats, eggs, milk, fresh fruit and vegetables. Over the years Americans also have tended to spend more of their income on choicer meats and better quality vegetables and groceries.

All of this can change quickly if incomes drop, due to unemployment or other reasons. Families quickly trim food budgets when the pay check shrinks.

Also they shift away from certain foods when they get too costly. One example was the cut-back by many families in meat buying when meat prices were at their highest. A more recent one is the staying away from potatoes when they temporarily became collector's items.

Bride's Maids

Teens Busy On Wedding Day

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

So you're going to be a bridesmaid. You've suddenly been caught up in a rush of excitement that leaves little time for all the things you have to accomplish in your teen-age life.

If this is your first appearance as a member of a wedding party you'd better be prepared to include dress fittings, rehearsals and many shopping expeditions in your already busy school schedule.

But in all the hustle and bustle don't forget to make your own personal grooming plans. Such an important occasion certainly calls for a special make-up and hair-do.

Once your dress has been chosen you will be in a better position to decide about your make-up. If it is a fragile pastel, keep your make-up in approximately the same tone. But no matter what the color, always be careful to try for a subtle effect.

The neckline of your dress should influence the hair style you pick for the wedding. For instance, if it is off the shoulder, consider wearing your hair long and full. Just the opposite is true if the dress has a high rounded collar. Then you will want your hair off your neck, in whatever style is, of course, most flattering for you.

Discuss hair styles and make-up with the other bridesmaids and the prospective bride. Find out what each one's plans are, so that you will all be in complete accord. And remember the bride must always be the center of attraction. It is the job of the bridesmaids to complement and point up her beauty.

Garage Burns When Sun Rays Explode Jug

By Mrs. Verna Palmer

GREEN RIDGE — A double garage was destroyed by fire the Ed and John Poppinga farm on Friday, June 6, at 6:30 o'clock. Damage was estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000.

A large quantity of tools and small farming equipment were lost. They were stored in the building. The fire was started by the rays of the sun shining through a window and into a jug filled with an alcohol-base anti-freeze, causing it to explode. The entire building was in flames by the time volunteers arrived on the scene.

James Parrish, who is in the Army, recently spent a 10 day furlough visit with his wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Price Ruffin. He reported at Camp Kilmer, N. J., for duty. Parrish just recently completed a quartermasters course in shoe repairing at Fort Lee, Va.

Commie East Germany Beats New Wermacht

BONN, Germany (AP)—Communist East Germany is whipping together a new Red Wehrmacht to threaten the West while the free world faces a two-year wait for West German manpower to plug the gaps in Europe's defense.

This is the menacing fact confronting the West as six European nations debate whether to merge their armies into a united defense force.

Mobilizing the manpower and industry of Western Germany in the Atlantic defense system depends on the verdicts of the six European parliaments to the proposal to create a one-uniform army. The Germans cannot put a single man into uniform until the parliaments have acted.

Allied and German officials here predict it will be October, at least, before the West German, French, Italian and Benelux parliaments finally ratify the European army plan—if they do.

Then the long pull begins to create from scratch West German divisions that could help hurl back any Russian drive to the west.

Allied and German authorities believe the West Germans will need at least two years—perhaps longer — to mobilize, train and equip the 400,000 troops they have promised to provide for the European army.

Soviet-occupied East Germany has just lunged into a remilitarization program calling for vast expansion of their Russian-trained cadre army by the end of this year. This force of trained combat troops—officially called the People's police" — already numbers 60,000 men.

By the end of 1953 the East German Communists are expected to place at least 12 divisions totalling 180,000 men at the service of Moscow. The Communists expect to mobilize a total of 25 divisions and 375,000 men when their program is completed.

West Germany has agreed to raise 12 divisions of ground troops, an air force and a defensive navy to join the European army in a strong defensive line from the Baltic to Switzerland.

In the long pull, the West Germans can outmatch the East Germans both in manpower and armament. Western Germany has a population of 48 million plus the Ruhr, continental Europe's largest industrial complex and Germany's arsenal in two world wars.

Eastern Germany is at best a second class Soviet satellite. It has only 18 million people and scanty industrial underpinning, but in the impending arms race the East Germans ironically will hold the edge over the West Germans during the next two critical years.

The reason is the agonizingly long time it will take to transform West Germans into hard-hitting, swift-moving combat groups.

Meanwhile across the Iron Curtain, Communist East Germany has embarked on rearmament with typical totalitarian methods and a whirlwind recruiting campaign.

'Once a Year' Magazine Has Tales of Ex-Sedalia Editor

Among feature articles in issue of the annual "Once a Year" magazine published by the Milwaukee, Wis., Press Club was one with anecdotes on T. Murray Reed, retired executive city editor of the Milwaukee Journal.

Mr. Reed, now resides in Pershing Court Apartments in Warrensburg, where he started his newspaper career on the Warrensburg Star. He was one time news editor of the old Sedalia Sentinel and was a stickler for facts as the article indicates. A cub reporter in the days when he was in Sedalia will verify ths fully.

When in Sedalia, in the early 1900's, some pretty tough characters had to be dealt with. But Mr. Reed, although small in stature, when confronted by one of these irate individuals (who felt that he had been dealt with without "soft pedaling") merely took a few more puffs on his ever ready pipe and said, 'So What?." Accuracy and fairness formed his set policy and he held to that strictly and this largely brought him advancement in newspaperdom.

The "Once a Year" magazine article says:

The large steel desk is still in the same old place, about 25 feet behind the city editor's left shoulder in the Milwaukee Journal city room. It seems a bit profane to see copy girls sitting there occasionally, licking stamps.

Reporters still describe it as "Mr. Reed's desk" when they are placing it geographically. Sometimes it does seem odd not to see T. Murray Reed at his old place of business.

Murray Reed — the oldsters called him "Murray" and the youngsters called him "Mr. Reed" —retired at 72 on August 31, 1951, as executive city editor of The Journal. It was 30 years, to the day, since he came to work there as assistant city editor.

Graduate of K. C. Star

He was a graduate of the Kansas City Star, and was a newspaperman for 52 years. The biographical facts were chronicled in the Journal at the time of Murray Reed's retirement, but now that he has departed some months, it is the anecdotes about him that are being remembered.

In his later years, he was completely a creature of habit. It was hard for anyone to beat him to work, for he was always there around 6:45 a. m.

He would pull the eye shade over his bald head, light a stogie, and start reading. His sharpest eye was reserved for two pet topics—the weather and obituaries.

On paydays, he was the first one off to the bank. This was always a source of amusement to reporters who were anxious to get over there, too, to cover the checks they had cashed the day before.

No Use For Lighters

But Murray Reed had his own way of doing things. You would with one of those newfangled lighters. He undoubtedly had burned up more matches than any one since the days of fire by friction.

In the old days, when he was exclusively a pipe smoker, the area around his desk was littered with burned matches. Even when the Journal city room was equipped with large brass cuspidors, Murray Reed's aim was poor.

But what kind of a city editor was he, you ask, after all these trivialities? Well, you can take the word of older hands like Wally MacIver, Walter Wyrick and Kirk Bates that he was a good one.

MacIver recalls Reed's common sense approach to stories.

"Let's Look Into This"

One cold winter day there was a police report that a Journal newsboy had jumped into the Milwaukee River to rescue a dog.

"That would be a good story if true," Reed remarked, "but I can't quite picture a boy, all bundled up in an overcoat, jumping into the river. Let's look into this."

Another Milwaukee paper printed a story and pictures about the juvenile hero. The Journal told how the boy confessed that he had faked the story as an excuse to his mother after falling accidntally into the river from its bank.

Reed, Wyrick relates, was not an editor to be bluffed by people with "influence."

One business man who had been given a nominal fine for a technical violation of the law in one of his stores called Reed and asked that the item be kept out of the paper.

Caller Gets Tough

Reed was courteous, but he would not say yes. The businessman got tough, he named important friends at the Journal and reminded Reed that he was a big advertiser.

Reed exploded. Then he began a furious search through the wastebasket. He had thrown the item away, but he dug it up and marked it "Page one, must."

When Bates was a newcomer to the Journal, he manned the state desk at night. An irate subscriber came up to complain about a local story. Bates tried to explain that he had nothing to do with the story, but the subscriber became abusive. Finally Bates agreed to call the city editor.

Reed grunted a couple of times over the phone — not too sympathetically. Finally he asked, "What's his objection to the story?"

Reason For Objection

"He doesn't like it," Bates replied in what he describes as "a clear, ringing voice."

"Oh," answered Reed, "he doesn't like it, eh? Now, tell him I said that's too damn bad, and ask him what he is going to do about it. And if he bothers you any more, kick him downstairs."

Bates delivered Reed's message —verbatim.

"The gentleman," says Bates, "went away."

And that was Murray Reed. He is somewhat mellower than that now, it is true. But as he rounds out his days with the charming Daisy Reed at Warrensburg, Mo., the neighbors, and the milkman, and the grocery boy, will find that it pays to shoot straight with T. Murray Reed.

Lovely Sunning

Treat Your Skin To Gradual Tan

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Now that warm weather is making itself felt, you should begin sun bathing as often as possible. The sooner you begin, the better your skin will be able to take the stronger rays later on.

If you are a housewife, set aside a half-hour or so in the afternoon for gardening or just relaxing in your backyard. Should you live in an apartment house, the problem is easily solved by paying a visit to a neighboring park or your roof.

The woman who works in an office, of course, must confine her outdoor activities to weekends. If you are in this category, make it your business to get out under the sun on Saturdays and Sundays.

Your determination to spend time out of doors will give ou an opportunity to bicycle ride, join a hiking group or perhaps indulge in such sports as tennis and horseback riding.

Long drives out in the country will also enable you to enjoy the wonderful spring weather, to say nothing of seeing nature at its very best.

Don't underestimate the strength of the sun at this time of year, however, especially if your skin is sensitive. Apply suntan lotion for protection. The lotion will also help to insure a smooth, even tan.

Your skin will take the heat of the summer sun with no trouble at all—with the proper introduction.

Texas Models Take Lone Star Styles to France

By DOROTHY ROE
AP WOMEN'S EDITOR

Seven beautiful Texas models, complete with ten-gallon hats and buckskin jackets, are due to invade the French Riviera next month.

Invited by the French government, the Lone Star state is going to put on a show for the international set during "Texas Week on the Riviera," July 12 to 20. Texas fashions will be shown by Texas models.

The Texas delegation will travel by air in full cowboy regalia. Their specially made wild west costumes, costing an average of $1,000 are made by Frontex of Dallas, a firm which runs up tasty $100 shirts and such for rodeo boys and girls.

Footing the bill is a Dallas department store, A. Harris and Company.

The Texans are planning to challenge French fashions on their own ground, staging three elaborate fashion shows during the week and bringing along all the trappings of the great open spaces.

They will engage the French in a battle of flowers on Bastille Day, July 14, an event arranged by the Nice Chamber of Commerce—and down Dallas way they're ready to take all bets on the winner.

Frenchmen will sample real Western chile and hot tamales, and the visitors will pass out Texas citizenship papers to European celebrities, along with several dozen ten-gallon hats.

When the girls descend on the Riviera and give with a rebel yell, it's practically certain the French will discover Texas.

Monkey Cheers Stricken Girl

DALLAS (AP) — After Rose Marie Sebastian, 11, became almost completely paralyzed by polio, the desire she had always had for a pet monkey became stronger.

A letter she and her mother wrote to the Brownsville zoo has produced results through a monkey importer. The monkey was recently trapped in Costa Rica and began a long journey to the bedside of Rose Marie.

"I can't wait till he gets here," she said. "Mama fixed a bed for him right next to mine."

Stars Attend High School Proms, Keep Hot Rods Off Roads

LONG BEACH, CALIF. (AP) — High school seniors here use Hollywood to help cut down the annual Senior Ball traffic accidents.

Like many another high school in the land, the Long Beach seniors traditionally used to hit the highways in their hot rods when the Ball broke up. Some traffic accidents resulted.

Now, the seniors hold an all-night dancing party. This year such performers as Bob Crosby, Harry James, The Page Cavanaugh Trio and movie acts entertained the seniors all night. The affair ended with breakfast. The only driving was from home to the Municiapl Auditorium and back again.

Shelley Winter's New Mate Turns Out Good In Starring Role

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Director Maxwell Shane admits he hired Vittorio Gassman for a starring role in "The Glass Wall" in order to cash in on the Italian Actor's publicity with new wife, Shelley Winters.

"I didn't expect him to be such a good actor, too," adds Shane.

The director says Gassman has been schooled in the realistic Italian school.

"When he is supposed to run, he really runs," comments Shane, adding that the usual Hollywood actor practices various tricks to keep from working himself too hard.

Japanese Give Nod to Chiang Only On Isle

TOKYO (AP) — Previous official intimations that Japan recognizes Chiang Kai-Shek's government as the legal representative of all of China were dashed today by a Foreign Office spokesman.

The spokesman announced that Japan recognizes Chiang as the ruler of only Formosa and the Pescadores Islands—territories the Nationalists actually occupy.

Last Wednesday, the Japanese press reported Eiji Wajima, chief of the Foreign Office Asia Bureau, told a Diet committee it would be legally impossible to sign a peace treaty with Communist China.

Wajima declared the signing of a peace pact with Nationalist China on Formosa last April signified that a state of war between Japan and China ceased to exist.

Today Sam Masuda, officer in the Information and Cultural Affairs Section of the Foreign Office, said there has been a dispute over precisely what Wajima told the Diet committee.

In answer to a query, Masuda said Japan has not recognized the sovereignty of the Nationalist government over the Chinese mainland.

The Nippon Times quoted Wajima as illustrating the relationship between the Nationalists and the Reds as follows:

"A man owns a house consisting of two rooms, one eight mat (in size) and the other 4½-mat. Even if the bigger room is occupied illegally by some other person, the entire house still belongs to the original owner."

Spokesman Masuda said a transcript of Wajima's statement would not be available for several days.

Tokyo newspapers also reported that Takezo Shimoda, chief of the Foreign Office Treaties Bureau, testified before the Upper House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday that war with all of China was definitely over as far as Japan was concerned.

Shimoda was quoted as saying Chiang's government is the legal government of China.

(The Foreign Office spokesman pointed out that a note exchanged when the peace treaty with Chiang was signed said in part: "...The terms of the present treaty shall, in respect of the republic of China, be applicable to all the territories which are now, or which may hereafter be, under the control of its government."

Formosa, the Pescadores and a few small islands are all that the Nationalists presently hold. Presumably the note meant that if the Nationalists regained control of part of the Chinese mainland, Japan would then recognize Chiang as ruler of the regained territory.

Couple Likes to Find Out What Makes Writers Write

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How do writers write?

This is a topic which has always intrigued me. I was delighted to learn that it was also a favorite subject of Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon.

The gifted married couple rank among the most successful writers in the country. Separately, Kanin, a top film director, wrote "Born Yesterday," which drew a million dollars from the film rights alone. Miss Gordon, one of Broadway's foremost actresses, penned two hit plays, "Over 21" and "Years Ago." Together they have turned out six screen plays, including "A Double Life," "Adam's Rib" and "The Marrying Kind."

The Kanins are here to put the finishing touches on the screen play of "Years Ago," which will star Spencer Tracy and Debbie Reynolds. I called to inquire about their writing habits.

"I must say that the business of writing intrigues me," Kanin remarked. "I've only written since the war, and that's the reason I don't direct pictures any more: I'm so much in love with writing. Through the good fortune of being married to Miss Gordon. I have been able to meet a lot of writers. I always ask them about their habits.

"We have become good friends of Thornton Wilder. He told us that every author has some kind of warm-up period before he can write. Wilder takes a walk, which is physiologically helpful in circulating the blood and stimulating thought. Willa Cather used to read a chapter of the Bible before starting to write.

"Ernest Hemingway writes longhand with a pencil. When he finishes, he breaks all the pencil points. When he starts again in the morning, he warms up by sharpening all the pencils with a knife.

"When we were in France last summer, we called on Somerset Maugham and fired all kinds of questions at him. He said he got up every morning of his life and wrote for four hours, no more, no less. 'But supposing you get sick?' we asked. He replied: 'If you live by the pen, you cannot afford to get sick.'"

I asked for their own habits, and the Kanins replied that they work everywhere—walking around New York City, driving to their country home, etc.

"We get some of our best work done on the train," Miss Gordon remarked. "When we go back east, we're taking a slow train this time, so we can get six more hours of work done."

Instead of indulging in the usual husband-and-wife small talk, the Kanins often kick around story ideas. They talk their plots out together, then parcel out the writing and retire to separate offices to work.

"I've found that the actual writing is the easiest part of the work," said Kanin. "I think most authors have things pretty well figured out in their minds before they start putting it into words."

Supposing they clash over material?

"We work it out," he replied. "But I don't favor too much compromise. You often end up with something neither one likes. If one of us comes up with a project idea that the other one doesn't like, we work separately. For instance when I suggested the idea for 'Born Yesterday,' Miss Gordon said she didn't care for it.

"And when I told him about 'Over 21,'" she added, "he said, 'Oh, I suppose it's all right, but it's not my kind of thing'".

One Man in Every 10 Drafted Turns Up Unfit for Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just about one out of every ten men classified in the draft is turning up as unfit for military duty.

Selective Service reported yesterday that of 12,416,129 youths examined from 1948 up to last April 30, a total of 1,443,315 had been classified as 4-F. That's 11.6 per cent.

Both the healthiest and unhealthiest showings were made outside the Continental United States.

The Canal Zone had the best record—18 4-F out of 477 registrants for a 3.8 percentage. Puerto Rico had the most unfits—72,331 out of 220,240 for a 32.8 percentage.

Among the states, South Dakota made the best showing—only 3,605 of its 55,277 registrants classified 4-F, a 6.5 percentage.

The highest rate of rejections for military duty in the states was in South Carolina—with 40,958 out of 191,700 for 21.4 per cent.

Private Pays Bill As Dines iWth ~~General~~

WASHINGTON (AP) — A soldier, private first class, sang a few songs before a hotel dining room audience after he had been recognized by a waiter as a recording star.

After the performance, a brigadier general in the crowd invited the singer to join his party of four.

When the waiter came around with the check for the general's table, it wasn't the general who paid the $50 bill.

The private first class reached for it.

He was Eddie Fisher, a recording artist now on duty at nearby Fort Myer, Va.
